

3-County Congressional District Suggested

G. O. P. GROUPS CONFER FRIDAY ON NEW PLAN

Possibility of recommendations being made by the Republican county central committees of Orange, Riverside and San Bernardino counties that they be grouped as one congressional district under the reapportionment act passed by the last congress was seen today in the announcement that the three groups would meet to consider the matter at the Riverside courthouse at 8 p. m., next Friday.

According to T. B. Talbert, chairman of the Orange county committee, the question of redistricting is to be the chief matter for consideration at the session. He stated that informal discussion reported from the three committees had indicated a possible trend toward the creation of the tri-county congressional district.

If any recommendations are to be made as a result of the conference, they probably would be made through Congressman Phil D. Swing, Talbert stated.

The Orange county central committee members who will attend the meeting are Talbert, Earl Abbey, secretary; Stanley Reinhaus, Santa Ana; Howard B. Irwin, Fullerton; Frank Tausch, Anaheim; C. F. Newton, Orange, and John Osterman, Tustin.

3 SUSPECTS HELD IN ARIZONA MURDER

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., Aug. 21.—(UP)—Three men were under arrest here today as suspects in connection with the slaying of Paul Edward Reynolds, department of justice agent in Arizona.

The men gave their names as Cecil Miller, Harry Smith and John Cooper. They admitted they had just come from Arizona via Los Angeles.

INVESTIGATE FLYERS' SABOTAGE CHARGES

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Aug. 21.—(UP)—The district attorney's office today questioned those who handled the airplanes of the competitors in the women's air derby of the National Air Races in an attempt to sift charges that some ships were tampered with during the first overnight stop of the derby.

Field guards, the men who serviced the planes and race officials were called to the office of Chief Deputy District Attorney Thompson, in charge of the probe. Thompson said he intended to prove or disprove the sabotage accusations.

PLANES TO DROP FLOWERS ON MISS CROSSON'S GRAVE

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 21.—(UP)—Squadrons of airplanes will fly overhead and drop flowers on her grave when funeral services are held here for Marvel Crosson, plucky woman aviator, killed when her craft crashed near Well-ton, Ariz., while she was competing in the women's air derby of the National Air Races.

Ships from Santa Monica and San Diego will join in paying tribute to Miss Crosson, holder of the world's endurance record for women and one of the best known of the nation's feminine flyers.

FIND NOTHING TO SUPPORT SABOTAGE CHARGES

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Aug. 21.—(UP)—After questioning 16 witnesses, the district attorney's office announced here today that it could find nothing to support sabotage charges preferred by certain entrants in the women's air derby of the National Air Races.

The conduct of the flyers was commended as was the work of local committees in a formal statement from the office. No evidence was found to support accusations that planes were tampered with here.

Chief Deputy District Attorney Thompson said that the investigation would be held open for any further testimony.

NEW AIR SERVICE BEGINS NEXT MONTH

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—(UP)—Air passenger service over the Transcontinental Air Transport's new San Francisco-to-Bartow leg, stopping at Bakersfield and connecting with the regular transcontinental system at Bartow, is tentatively scheduled to start September 1, Donald Bartlett, assistant general manager of the T. A. T. announced today.

The project calls for a morning east-bound ship over the San Francisco-Bakersfield-Bartow route, and an evening ship returning. A line from Bakersfield to Los Angeles will connect twice a day with the Transcontinental ships from Bartow and from San Francisco, Bartlett said, making four ships a day to stop at the Bakersfield station.

Present facilities at Bakersfield, including the passenger terminal there, will be utilized, he added. Flood lights and a passenger station will be installed at Bartow at an approximate cost of $20,000, while guiding lights over the Tehachapi range between Los Angeles and Bakersfield will be installed shortly.

BUENA PARK

BUENA PARK, Aug. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. Rayford Hall, of Los Angeles, were Saturday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hall.

The Misses Marion and Burdette Hebert, Santa Barbara, visited their aunt, Mrs. Fay Ensign, of Homewood avenue, Saturday.

Mrs. E. S. Davis and daughters, Eleanor and Ruth, left Sunday for Valley of the Falls, where they will spend a week's vacation.

Lloyd Claus, of Long Beach, purchased the L. A. Newman property on Court street, and will move into the residence this week. Mr. Newman has moved a house from Anaheim onto his lot on Homewood and Holt streets and will move his family there.

Miss Mabel Looney, Mrs. Ora Looney, Mrs. W. E. Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Guthrie and son, Raymond; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hall, and Elberta Stanke were Huntington Beach visitors Friday evening.

upon his arrival in Los Angeles, our best wishes and congratulations on his successful trip. Many greetings from all.

"ERNEST MAASS AND WIFE (nee Eckener)."

In accordance with the sentiment of the letter, Jessen is planning to be in Los Angeles on the arrival of the Zeppelin and will visit his daughter, Mrs. George A. Dickson, of that city. It is his plan to approach the German consul and, through him, establish the necessary contact for delivering the greetings of the commander's people in Germany.

Knowing the innate sentiment and great family love of the German race, it is easy to believe that when the famous commander and his equally famous ship reach Los Angeles no plaudits from the highest in the land, no gifts or flowers or honors, will be so precious to him as the simple message of greeting from his own people, extended to him through an unassuming little blacksmith of the western world.

For Jessen, the greater part of whose life has been spent in this city, has been well known throughout the county, for he was the "village blacksmith" of Santa Ana's early days. For many years the clang of his hammer and anvil rang through the quiet air, but with the passing of time he has retired from all active work, after fully 60 years of following his chosen trade, which he learned in the old country as a lad.

In 1881 he was married in this city to Mrs. Martha Young, a native of Ohio, and he and Mrs. Jessen never are happier than when surrounded by their family and close relatives. The happiest day he ever spent he declares to have been in the past July, when his nephew, Henry Jessen, of San Antonio, Texas, visited here and a family reunion was held in his honor. Henry Jessen was born in Flensburg and later became a sea-faring man who has circled the globe many times by steamship, and whose interest in his fellow-townsmen's trip by air is fully as great as that of his uncle according to letters received from him.

tempt to span the Atlantic by air from east to west.

The United Press learned that Coste intends to start at dawn Thursday if weather conditions are favorable.

Coste, who, with Joseph Lebriz, has a South Atlantic crossing to his credit, turned back a few weeks ago when, 400 miles east of the Azores on a flight from Paris to New York, when he found that head winds were causing him to use gasoline so rapidly that his supply would be exhausted before reaching the American continent.

NEW MOSCOW-GOTHAM HOP BEGINS FRIDAY

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—(UP)—A new Moscow-to-New York flight via Siberia and Alaska to Seattle and across the United States will begin Friday morning with an airplane similar to the one which recently was smashed in Siberia while enroute to America.

The same crew will man the new plane, which also will be called Land of the Soviets.

A thick fog near Chita, it was explained here, was responsible for the abrupt end of the first attempted flight to the United States. The aviators lost their direction and when they tried to land they crashed into a tree, wrecking the machine.

SUN GOD FINISHES LONGEST NON-STOP HOP

FELTS FIELD, Spokane, Wash., Aug. 21.—(UP)—After spanning the continent twice without touching its wheels to the ground, battling storms and flying 7500 miles in five days, the Spokane Sun God rested today, back in its home hangar after the longest non-stop flight in aviation history.

Its pilots, Lt. Nick Mamer and Art Walker, bearded like explorers and tired but happy, caught up on their sleep after the grueling five-day epochal trip.

The orange plane nosed out of a cloud of forest fire smoke yesterday afternoon and circled lazily over Felts field just five days after it had left. After demonstrating how the flight was made by making two refueling contacts over the airport, the pilots touched the Sun God's wheels to the ground at 6 p. m., five days to the minute after it had roared away toward the eastern seaboard.

TURNER OFF FOR NEW YORK

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—(UP)—Accompanied by four passengers and carrying $3,000,000 in securities, consigned to a New York bank, Capt. Roscoe Turner, of the Nevada Airways, took off from here today on a speed hop to New York.

He hopes to reach the eastern city in 18 hours and, doing that, he plans to return west immediately in an attempt to set a round-trip record.

Captain Turner left here at 12:45 a. m. He headed first for Albuquerque, N. M., where he will make a refueling.

His Lockheed-Vega monoplane has a speed of nearly 200 miles an hour.

ONE-MAN REFUELING FLIGHT ENDS IN CRASH

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 21.—Don Templeman's one-man refueling endurance flight came to an end last night, less than an hour before he would have established a record, when his plane crashed into a lake.

Templeman was not hurt but was taken to a hospital to rest and fell asleep before he could tell the details of the accident. He had been in the air slightly less than 36 hours when he fell. Templeman had accomplished a new feat in aviation annals by successfully refueling his plane six times while he piloted.

Before the plane crashed into the lake it hit a power line with would call upon the Democrats to prepare a tariff bill of their own, including in it only the agricultural and related rates. This minority bill could be reported out as a minority report from the committee in protest against the majority bill and as a report it would have an excellent parliamentary status, more satisfactory than a motion to recommit. This plan is suggested by some independent Republican senators who want to work with the Democrats in the tariff contest.

The Democratic leaders have indicated no strong sentiment for this method because it carries the responsibility of championing a complete substitute for the Republican bill. They are taking the position that the Republicans were elected last November on a tariff platform which they have the right to enact and that the Democratic responsibility goes no further than the necessity of seeing that the "public interests are protected."

Joint Maneuvers Possible

A third suggested plan is to drop all these moves for big joint maneuvers and fight the issues out on individual rates.

Until these matters are threshed out and the various leaders have a chance to scrutinize the new rates in detail, it is likely the statements of the opposition will continue to be along general lines.

A decision may be expected within the next few days as the last of the Democratic tariff generals, Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, is expected on the scene tomorrow. Most of the other Democratic and Independent Republican leaders already are here.

Meanwhile Republican members of the finance committee are continuing work on the administrative features of the bill which they expected to have ready for submission to the full committee before the end of next week.

Six hundred "White Russians" were reported serving in the Chinese vanguard between Manchuli and Dalainor, the scene of the heaviest fighting.

Changchung reported that 2000 Kirin infantry passed through there today enroute to Manchuli from the south.

A dispatch from Dairen, near Port Arthur, confirmed the dynamiting of a train near Taipingling on Monday, with several killed. A group of suspected Soviet Russians were arrested, the Chinese claiming that Red terrorism is increasing.

The Chinese were strengthening their defenses both at Manchuli, on the western border, and opposite Pogranitchnaya, near Vladivostok on the east.

Mr. and Mrs. William Handy are spending a vacation at Yellowstone National park.

SECOND FIRE BREAKS OUT ON FRENCH SHIP

HAVRE, France, Aug. 21.—(UP)

A second fire ravaged the French liner Paris last night.

The flames required several hours to subdue. The salons and other deluxe parts of the ship were reduced to a mass of charred ruins. Experts who had hastened to the liner after the first fire yesterday were forced to abandon hope of reconditioning the vessel for immediate service.

A police inquiry was started to determine the cause of the fires. The first theory, that the fire was caused by a short circuit in one of the cabins, has been abandoned.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE

OLD GOLD CONCEALED NAME CIGARETTE TEST

Ask us another if we haven't answered here every question ever asked about it

QUESTION: Does OLD GOLD publish the score of every public test taken?

ANSWER: Yes . . . win, lose or draw!

QUESTION: Is OLD GOLD always the same number?

ANSWER: No. In the actual tests there are no numbers on the cigarette masks. The smoker, himself, tears off the paper masks and finds out for himself which cigarette he has chosen as best.

QUESTION: Is the Concealed Name Test a "guessing contest" . . . does the smoker attempt to guess brand names?

ANSWER: Decidedly not! The smoker states only which cigarette tastes best to him, and does not try to guess the name.

QUESTION: Who conducts these tests?

ANSWER: Never the makers of OLD GOLDS, or their agents. The tests are conducted by certified public accountants, or officials of the organization or institution under whose auspices the tests are given.

QUESTION: Are all competing brands equally fresh and in precisely the same condition?

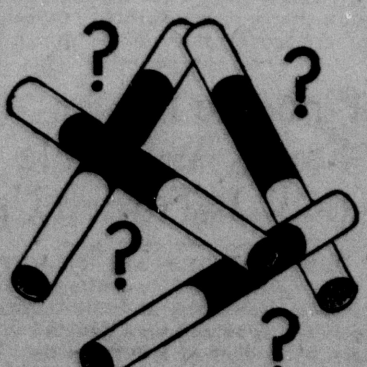

ANSWER: All four brands are purchased before each test at the same time in the same store out of retail stock, just as the public buys them . . . and the clerk who sells them certifies the purchase.

QUESTION: Does the official conducting the test know which cigarette is which while the smoker is making the test?

ANSWER: No! The cigarettes are arranged in sets of four . . . one each of the four leading brands. Then they are masked . . . their names completely concealed. When the official hands out these masked cigarettes it is impossible for him, or anyone, to know one from another.

NOTE: Why not make this test yourself in your own home? We'll be happy to send you a set of the brand name masks and complete instructions . . . Write to P. Lorillard Co., 119 West 40th Street, New York City.

Frederick Felberg, nine-year-old son of F. J. Felberg, rural route one, Monrovia, was treated at the Santa Ana Valley hospital last night for an infected foot which resulted from an accident several days ago. The boy is scheduled to leave the hospital today.

The Santa Ana Iron works, 924 East First street, was granted a permit yesterday to make an addition to its foundry, which will cost $2500. The addition, which will be 50x50, is being built to house a new line of business. Business has been showing a steady increase for the company, according to H. W. Cozad, office manager.

Alvin F. Schwartz, 30, and Clara Claussen, 29, both of Anaheim, have been granted a marriage license in Riverside.

Entry lists for the dog show to be held in connection with the Orange County fair will close tomorrow night. Committees announced today. Entries may be filed with Dr. R. A. Cushman, Dr. Fred Wright, District Attorney Z. B. West Jr. or Floyd Yoder.

Lou D. Holloway, 37, and Sarah E. Presley 39, both of Fullerton, have been granted a marriage license in Riverside.

OFFICIALS TO CONSIDER AID IN SEPTEMBER

Possibility that the state may include in its next biennial budget funds for construction of an overhead crossing at the intersection of the Newport-Santa Ana road and the coast highway was seen today in a communication to the board of supervisors from C. H. Purcell, state highway engineer.

That the state will make a survey of the situation at the intersection was stated in the letter from Purcell, which was read before the board yesterday by County Clerk J. M. Backs.

Estimates also will be prepared for consideration in preparing the budget for the next biennium, Purcell's letter said. The communication was in reply to one from the board, in which it was asked that an investigation be made. The matter will be called to the attention of the state highway commission and the director of public works at their next meeting, on September 5, according to the letter.

It was pointed out that all funds for highway construction in the next two years have been budgeted and that there are no funds immediately available.

DISTRICT WILL BE FORMED FOR STREET WORK

Costs for the West Fourth street extension project, plans and specifications for which were ordered by the city council Monday night following the presentation of a plan that had been approved by the Pacific Electric and the West Fourth Street Improvement association, will be carried by an assessment district embracing all the territory benefited, it was announced today by W. G. Knox, city manager.

The costs will be assessed under the state improvement act, Knox said, and the district could be brought clear through town on both sides of Fourth street if it could be shown that the benefits extended that far. Broadway was mentioned as the possible limit of the district. The district being so large will keep the amount of the improvement assessments levied against the individual property owners very low, Knox indicated.

J. T. Carter, who represented the improvement association before the council Monday, asserted today that he believed Third street would be included in the assessment district, and that it would extend as far east as Broadway or Main street.

ANAHEIM DEALERS TO MEET SEPT. 3

ANAHEIM, Aug. 21.—September 3 has been set as the first fall meeting of the Anaheim Merchants' association. Plans were made for the initial session at a meeting held yesterday in the city hall, when it was decided to hold the annual election of officers in conjunction with a dinner and program meeting.

President Dave Morris presided at yesterday's meeting and plans were discussed for the annual Halloween celebration, which has attracted thousands of visitors to the city on the evening of October 31 for a number of years past.

The new officers will be chosen by a vote from the floor.

Accidental Death Verdict Rendered By Coroner's Jury

The coroner's inquest conducted yesterday at Dixon's funeral parlors, Huntington Beach, brought a verdict of accidental death in the case of Mrs. A. E. ## $33 SECURED IN KETNER ROBBERY

Silver and currency to the amount of $33 was taken from the cash register at Ketner's cafe, 216 West Fourth street, between 4 and 6 o'clock this morning, according to a report made to Santa Ana police by Mrs. M. Ketner, proprietor.

The thief entered through the front door, which had been left unfastened by the janitor, Juan Cardenas, after he cleaned up at 4 o'clock. The theft was discovered when employees came to open for business at 6 o'clock.

Officer H. E. Holmes made an investigation after the robbery was reported to police.

CHINAMAN, 80, OUISTS OPIUM AFTER ARREST

When Henry Kom, 80-year-old Chinese from Anaheim, appears in Superior Judge James L. Allen's court tomorrow on a probation hearing, he will come as a man who, after using opium for practically all of his 80 score years, has showed sufficient determination and physical stamina to stop the habit entirely.

This feat, which was revealed today by Dr. Elwood Robison, of the Orange county hospital, was characterized by him as being nothing less than marvelous. For Kom, despite the total lack of the drug, has maintained his physical vigor and has continued to display the same even friendly temperament that marked him throughout his life.

Refused Opium

The termination of the opium habit came voluntarily. With a gesture of renunciation, Kom declined to ask for opium after his first few days in the hospital, during which he had used small amounts.

"No more," he said laconically, and the habit stopped.

When Kom appears tomorrow he also will have with him his 80-year-old round, black felt hat, which he has treasured as a memento of the days when the Chinese colony flourished in the vicinity of Lemon and Chartres streets, Anaheim. He never parts with his head piece.

Pioneer Citizen

The ancient Chinese was revealed today as one of Orange county's pioneer citizens, a man who has had his part in the building up of the county. He has lived in California for 63 years and in Anaheim for 50 years.

He is member of the Chinese order of Masons. When he was arraigned in superior court he was asked by a court attaché if he was a Mason.

"Sure, me Mason," Kom replied, pointing to Deputy District Attorney Lee Fris, he continued, "He Mason, too."

Kom vigorously denied that he was a member of any Tong.

"Me all American," he explained.

Name Is Puzzle

Kom's name has been more or less of a puzzle to authorities but part of the puzzle was solved when the court asked him if he had any other name than the one under which he was arraigned.

"Sure, me have married name," the pioneer said. And then it was discovered that Kom has a family, part of which is in Los Angeles and part in China. He explained through his interpreter that, when a Chinese man marries, he takes his wife's name.

"Married name La Chen," he remarked.

Colony Survivor

Kom is the only survivor of the old Chinese colony at Anaheim and can remember the days when prominent citizens of that community used to torment him as boys. Kom, with his fellows, would return home at dusk from work in surrounding groves and fields. Then the youngsters would appear to pester the peace loving Orientals until they poured out handfuls of "Chinese nuts," queer eastern candies and sometimes, on Chinese New Years, gifts of firecrackers. But Kom was placid through it all and probably showed the same calm, contented disposition that he displays today.

Kom will appear tomorrow to learn whether he is to be given probation on a charge of possession of opium, to which he has pleaded guilty.

FINAL DETAILS ARRANGED FOR BAND CONCERT

Reminding local music lovers that the Santa Ana Municipal band will be heard in the final concert of its summer series tomorrow night in Birch park, D. C. Clafoni, director of the popular musical organization, announced today that final details are in readiness for what he feels will prove one of the most colorful and spectacular programs yet offered here by the band.

Clafoni again called attention to elaborate staging of the special ballet, "The Dance of the Hours" from Puccini's famous opera "La Gioconda," as the climax to a program replete with novelties. Considered the loveliest ballet from operatic repertoire, this will be given by a corps of 27 trained dancers, from the Putnam School of Dancing of this city.

"The Dance of the Hours" symbolizes the struggle between conflicting powers of light and darkness, progress and ignorance, and in fascinating, colorful manner portrays with picturesque beauty the golden hours of the day put to rout by the sable Hours of the Night. Vivid costuming and colored electrical lighting will add to effectiveness of special stage setting that has been provided.

Music by the band accompanying this elaborate spectacle is also replete with melodic charm and gracefully rhythmic design.

Peggy Kiskadden will be seen as premiere danseuse, with Audrey Savage as soloist, while the dainty corps de ballet will include Virginia Lee Buchanan, Doris Hill, Mary Anna Dean, Corinne Adelman, Betty Pierce, Jane Evans, Betsy Mae Dietrich, Maxine Tagg, Ruth Frances, Frances Richardson, Evelyn Carr, Marjorie Streeter, Avo Stovall, Lorraine Sender, Opal Shroder, Dixie Chapman, Le Fay Morris, Jean Russell, Jean McClay, Roberta Horton, Jewel Thebeau, Lucille Dehne.

One of the most effective scenes from "La Gioconda," "The Dance of the Hours" is widely acclaimed the most fascinating of all modern Italian ballets.

Symphonic numbers to be programmed by the band tomorrow night will include two of Rossini's most famous overtures, the Overture from "Semiramide" and the Overture from "William Tell." The "Semiramide" is perhaps the finest of Rossini's serious operas. Its overture opens with very brilliant introduction followed by a beautiful brass chorale, widely admired. The familiar passage forming the overture's principal theme then appears as a clarinet passage. The finale is fine and showy. The overture from "William Tell" is a favorite with laymen and musicians the world over, played probably as often as any other single work at concerts universally. It abounds in beautiful contrasts, and is a remarkably effective symphonic gem.

Other typically Italian musical selections are programmed, together with several special vocal features by prominent local artists, previously announced.

Margherita Marsden, mezzo soprano, and Carl Sibbert, tenor, will sing the fourth finale duet from "El Trovatore" in costume.

PLAN DUET AT CONCERT

Margherita Marsden, mezzo soprano, and Carl Sibbert, who will sing a duet at the band concert in Birch park Thursday evening.

100 EXPECTED AT PICNIC OF CLUB THURSDAY

The second annual picnic of the Santa Ana Lions club will be held tomorrow, when it is expected that nearly 100 Lions and their families will drive to Irvine park at 5 o'clock to eat their dinners.

Two ball teams are to be organized from those present and the game will be the principal feature of the afternoon. Three-legged races and other amusements are to be enjoyed.

Each family will take its own lunch and coffee, cream and ice cream will be furnished by the club, according to Lyle Anderson, president of the organization.

Tonight at the First Christian church, 6th and Broadway, Myrtle B. Anderson, of New York City, famous Negro woman lawyer, will speak to the public in Santa Ana. ## DEFENSE MOVE FAILS IN MCGEE LIQUOR TRIAL

The prosecution today won the first "hand to hand" skirmish in the trial of William R. McGee, of Los Angeles, charged with perjury as a result of testimony given by him in the trial of Walter Meeks, convicted of selling liquor.

After the first group of prosecution witnesses had testified, the defense moved for dismissal. After the jury had been excused and Superior Judge H. G. Ames had heard the arguments, he denied the motion and the trial was resumed.

A bull dog today caused a mild sensation in the court when he was referred to by James Todd, witness for the prosecution, and plumbing inspector of Los Angeles. Todd recalled a visit to the home of McGee, where a ditch had been dug for a sewer. He chuckled as he remarked that a bulldog had run out at him and that, after exchanging diplomatic conversation, he had appeased the dog's feelings.

"Never mind the bull dog," said the court rather sternly.

"I'm only trying to bring out all the facts as they occurred," said Todd.

The prosecution today concentrated on its attempt to disprove McGee's testimony at the Meeks trial to the effect that the latter had been digging the ditch for him on February 15, the day on which he was asserted to have sold the liquor in Smeltzer.

Todd's testimony was to the effect that he had observed the ditch almost two months later and that it appeared to have been freshly dug. On cross examination he admitted that it possibly could have been dug earlier, refilled, and then opened at the later date.

"But it is not probable," he said.

The motion for dismissal, made by Stanley Visel and Sidney Sampson, defense attorneys, came after Deputy District Attorney S. R. Kaufman and Leo Fris had placed Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Rutherford on the stand. Rutherford said he was the contractor who had hooked up the sewer. He was unable to remember the date of the work, a point on which the prosecution is concentrating. Mrs. Rutherford then took the stand, with the prosecution planning to show through her testimony that the work had been done two months after the day on which McGee said Meeks had worked for him. Mrs. Rutherford kept her husband's account books, she said, but found that there was no date with the entry on the McGee work. After a defense objection had been overcome, she was allowed to testify that the entry was preceding that of the McGee work was dated April 8. The entries had been made in chronological order, she said.

Wife Cites Booze Story In Request For Divorce Decree

Three hundred dollars worth of really good liquor. All consumed on shipboard on a trip between Liverpool, Eng., and India. Just two people to do the trick.

That might sound nice to some people but Mrs. Beatrice Biscailuz included the booze story in a complaint for divorce filed today against Valentine Biscailuz. The other person who is asserted to have helped Biscailuz consume the beverage supply was a woman, according to the complaint.

Biscailuz went to India in November, 1928, without telling his wife he was going and without leaving her any money, she declared. He subsequently wrote to his brother that he had a woman with him all the way from Liverpool to India, the complaint alleged. Mrs. Biscailuz stated that he had told her that he wanted to see the world before he settled down with any woman.

COMMITTEE OF S. A. CHAMBER BACKS CONTEST

At a recent meeting of the health and sanitation committee of the chamber of commerce, it was decided to recommend to the chamber that it enter the health conservation contest sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The national body has adopted a resolution in which it was stated that "in order to conserve life and health to the fullest extent there should be a further development of national interest and activity. In efforts directed to this purpose, the chamber should participate and should enlist the widest possible co-operation on the part of its membership."

The object of the competition, as outlined in the international health conservation contest, is to assist in reducing economic losses in the United States due to unnecessary illness and prenatal deaths, by means of activities carried on by local chambers of commerce or similar organizations in co-operation with their official public health agency. The period of competition, while planned to be from January 1 to December 1 inclusive, will be retroactive for the present year to January 1, 1929. Awards for the present period of the contest are to be made to the winning cities at the next annual meeting of the national chamber.

Some of the main features of competition to be given prominence are the organization and equipment of local health departments, financial support of public health, both official and voluntary, and facilities for health education, water and milk supplies, sewage disposal, health laws and ordinances. Cities will be classified according to population.

The national chamber is being aided by members of the health officers' section of the American public health association, who in turn have asked for co-operation from the various health departments in the nation.

In the local chamber of commerce the committee on health and sanitation includes Dr. K. H. Sutherland, chairman; Dr. J. M. Burlew, Dr. H. McVicker Smith, Dr. James Farrage, Dr. J. L. Wehrly and Dr. John Ball.

No Kidding, This Really Is Unusual

ANAHEIM, Aug. 21.—No Anaheim fireman would dream of "kidding" a Seal Beach traffic officer but recently two members of the local fire department had trouble in convincing a member of the Seal Beach force that they were not indulging in this gentle pastime.

The Anaheim men were out for a drive in a car of a certain make. The officer was on the lookout for a stolen car of the same description. "Halt in the name of the law," said the officer, or words to that effect. "Your name," he demanded of one fireman.

"F. L. Roseberry," answered the fire laddie. "And mine is H. C. Raspberry," answered the other.

It took lodge receipts, operator's licenses and other credentials to convince the officer.

SPEICH PLANE AT PLANT FOR LAST CHECK UP

Verne Speich, Santa Ana pilot, will start an attempt Friday at noon to capture the world record for a solo non-refueling endurance flight in a Zenith biplane, announced today that the ship is at the company plant in Midway City receiving final inspection and check up, and that he is getting in some extra sleep in anticipation of the long sleepless grind that he faces.

There will be no further flights made with the ship until Thursday, Speich said, when he will pilot the plane from the Zenith plant to the Eddie Martin airport south of Santa Ana, which will be the scene of the takeoff, and headquarters during the attempt to break the present world record of 36 hours and 56 minutes.

Speich stated that he is confident that the new record will come to rest in Santa Ana, as the plane has passed all tests satisfactorily, and he is determined to keep it in the air until the gas supply runs out, which is expected to be for a period of about 48 hours.

HENS REPLACED

Hens, as mothers, are rapidly being replaced by machines. Commercial hatcheries employing incubators now hatch 23 per cent of the annual baby chick crop and incubators on farms hatch 24 per cent. The remaining 43 per cent is hatched under hens.

LAKE ARRANGES LARGEST FRUIT EVENT FOR FAIR

What grows in Orange county, or for that matter in the entire world, can show the largest branch cluster of oranges? This is the question that is bothering H. A. Lake, president of the county fair, which event begins next Wednesday.

In fact Lake has worried so over the question that the county fair board has decided to offer a prize of $35 to the person bringing the largest and best cluster of oranges to the fair at any time during the six days of its existence.

Some wonderful branch clusters have been grown this year. One brought to the Orange Chamber of Commerce office by Perry Grant, the other by carried 44 oranges and from which another cluster on the same branch, of 19 more, had been broken off, making a total of 63. The oranges were about 2 1/2 size.

This record, as to number, was equaled by an Azusa grower and the California Citigraph thought it such an event that the picture of this grower was published.

However, none of the above count, for the cluster must be brought to the fair grounds, there to be judged. The rules governing the decision will be weight, quality and number. No oranges will be counted that have fallen from the branch.

By branch cluster in its mean main stem which may in turn carry small branches so close together as to form one large cluster of fruit.

"Easy money for somebody," said President Lake. "Who that somebody is remains to be proven."

Library Given 150 New Books

WINTERSBURG, Aug. 21.—About 150 new books were brought this week from the general county library to the local branch by the local librarian, Miss Juliette Blaylock. There are at the present time between 800 and 900 books in the library.

New books include the following: Fiction, "Chance," J. Conrad; "Tomorrow Never Comes," R. L. Duffus; "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," Thornton Wilder; "The Far Call," Edison Marshall; "The Ragged Messenger," W. D. Maxwell; "Shasta of the Wolves," O. Baker.

Non-fiction, "A Lady of Quality," Francis H. Burnett; "Cradle of the Deep," J. Lowell; "Days and Deeds," B. E. Stephenson; "Gulliver's Travels," J. Swift; "American Boys," handbook, D. C. Beard.

The Public Forum

Communications under this head must be signed by the name of the writer. These communications express the opinions of the writers of them. The opinions may or may not be the opinions of the Register.

Editor Santa Ana Register:—

A bond election to vote $95,000 is to be held at Laguna Beach on August 27 to provide for five items, as follows:

1. To make a survey of the city and establish center lines for grade.

2. To purchase the Chamber of Commerce building.

3. To buy the Public Library building.

4. To improve public parks and buy land for a city center.

5. To buy a pier.

Item 1 has the merit of being a necessity and will probably be voted. Items 2, 3, 4 and 5 are not so obviously necessary at this time.

If the bond election were for establishing the grade and grading and culling the residence streets leading up to the foothills from the State boulevard, I feel sure they would be voted. For the residence streets are in a shocking condition and their repair would benefit the whole community.

Buying a civic center, a library building, a chamber of commerce building and a pier might benefit some of the people.

To grade and oil the streets of the city would benefit all the people. The motto of all newly incorporated cities with scanty population and funds should be "Necessities before luxuries. The good of all is before the good of a part. First things first."

The first need after establishing the grade is so obviously to grade and oil the streets as hardly to need stating. After this is done, the people will be more likely to consider the other less obviously necessary propositions.

HENRY J. WEEKS,

P. O. Box 56, Laguna Beach, California.

August 17, 1929.

EDITOR REGISTER:—

On page 486 of the general laws of California, 1923, there appears an enactment entitled "Conservancy Districts," title 125.

Under this enactment, an improvement district of any size or shape may be formed, and assessments levied on its component parts in varying amounts according to the benefits received by each unit or part of the whole.

The measure can be carried by a majority vote, and at the time of voting, commissioners are elected to carry on the affairs of the district in so far as they apply to this project.

The preliminary work is handled by appraisers who are appointed by the board of supervisors. The appraisers ascertain the costs and damages that would arise by reason of the improvement, and assess the cost against the property benefited according to the benefits received by each section.

While any development that takes place in the county is beneficial to the whole, the direct close-to-home interests of the coast and inland sections are widely divergent. Flood control does not engage the interest of the coast section save only to the extent that the general taxes, in which they share the cost, would be reduced by the amount that is now being expended to replace roads and bridges washed out by floods.

Water conservation interests them principally in the fact that they do not want the subterranean passages near bed rock, by which water now finds its way to the lower Santa Ana basin, interfered with as would be the case if the lower site would be utilized as planned under the Bailey report.

Our esteemed legal luminary, Horace Head, in referring to my activities in the Water Users' association remarked "that the only interest that Lucas had in water, was what came out of a faucet." In this he spoke more truly than he knew. The fact that I believed that placing a dam at the proposed spot would seriously endanger the water supply of our community was what started me in the organization of the Water Users' association. This belief has been strengthened by the opinion of the majority of the engineers since that time, and the final decision will be rendered by those whose chief interest is in the water that comes out of the faucet.

Huntington Beach, Newport Beach, Costa Mesa and Laguna Beach are vitally interested in this aspect of the matter, and would undoubtedly always vote heavily against the lower site. In fact a favorable vote might be construed as contributory negligence by the courts should an appeal have to be made by them as the result of building a dam at Esperanza.

The use of the upper site at Prado would not affect the flow to the lower basin to a marked degree (according to the information brought to light in the recent study of this matter) so that in the plan to be set forth, the upper site only is to be considered.

According to the figures presented by the engineers of the flood control district, of the amount of water to be conserved, $3,000,000, is all that can be capitalized and charged to flood control as a business proposition and this should (and under this proposed scheme would be) spread over all that part of the county which secures its water from the Santa Ana river, but eliminating all that part of the county which derives its water from other sources.

This $3,000,000 plus $5,000,000 for flood control would probably build the dam at Prado, and superimpose a structure above the water conservation dam to be built by private parties in the Santiago canyon, thus insuring Santa Ana against flood damage, and should be divided as follows: $4,000,000 to be distributed over that part of the county lying in the course of floods down to and including Talbot and those lands having drainage problems, those being benefited most, having the heaviest assessments; $1,000,000 distributed over the entire county on an ad valorem basis, the same to be in lieu of monies being now spent for the repair of flood damages. (The above is the only excuse of making a county wide district. All other parts would be better handled by local districts.)

The so-called political dams are not considered, but any that were wanted by the districts affected, could be included, and the cost spread over the benefited territory. A slight county wide tax should be included, as none of the projects are self supporting.

An additional $1,500,000 could be included to install a plant to reclaim the 11,000 acre feet now being wasted through the outfall sewer. If this were done the cost should be added to the $3,000,000 previously mentioned and spread over the water conservation district.

In this manner an united county might be again secured. The two principal objections that occur to the writer, are: first, that the board of supervisors has always refused to even consider any project that would entail the disbursing of any monies to employees in the confines of the county by any one but themselves, hence it would be difficult to secure the calling of an election according to this measure, regardless of its merits; and second, that we are so interested in having our pet plans put over for our benefit, with others paying a large part of the bill, that if it were called, we would probably vote it down. Still in some such manner is the only way in which we can expect to have an undivided county again.

From the view point of a plain business man, this plan presents a fair and equitable solution to our difficulties. Let everybody pay for the benefits that he receives according to the receipts, and stop trying through politics to make our neighbors pay a good share of the cost of these benefits.

STUART H. LUCAS,

Court Notes

N. T. Edwards yesterday brought suit against Charley C. Pankratz, Edna L. Pankratz and Lillian E. Yaeger, seeking judgment for $2500. The case is to be heard on a promissory note.

Seeking to foreclose a mortgage lien against Orange county property, the San Pedro Lumber company yesterday brought suit against John V. Conrad. The complaint alleged that the defendant is indebted to the plaintiff for $570.03 for building material.

Owing to the absence of an attorney in the case, the preliminary hearing of W. B. Yeagen and L. Driver, who are charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was continued by Justice K. E. Morrison until the attorney returns from a trip.

Bernard H. Davis was given the maximum fine of $50 for speeding, in city court, by Judge J. Talbott, when it was shown that he drove at an excessive rate of speed on North Broadway from Fifth street north, narrowly escaping collisions with other cars at two intersections and "cutting in" just before the traffic officer overtook him.

Ray Craig and W. M. Chard were fined $2 each by Judge Talbott on charges of overtime parking.

Parking from 2 until 5 a. m., cost W. S. Smalley and S. Grafton fines of $2 each in city court.

M. Carruthers was assessed $2 by Judge Talbott for parking in a restricted district.

MAJESTY OF THE LAW NOT WITHOUT ITS FUNNY SIDE, COURTHOUSE TALES INDICATE

"The majesty of the law!"

What a nice, mouth-filling phrase that is, one which we all are fond of using from time to time, calling to mind a man of stern and judicial aspect sitting enthroned behind a massive desk, and dealing out sentences and punishment in a manner approximating that of the Supreme Justice himself.

But again there is another side to the dispensing of laws that is not at all majestic, and that even approaches the absurd, and anyone lingering for a time within the spacious chambers and airy corridors of the Orange county courthouse, or hall of records, will find that even law dispensing has its lighter moments.

How could it be otherwise, when administering the law, as it is done in a county courthouse, brings those in power within touch of the general run of humanity? And surely nothing is funnier than humanity in the abstract—even sometimes in the concrete.

Backs' Stories Many

For instance there is the county clerk's office, where J. C. Backs has understudied Cupid for a number of years. If you want to hear of the funny things that men do when they wish to take out license to wed, approach Joe Backs when he is in an expansive mood. For instance there was the case of the man and woman who, after securing their license, asked the nearest justice court, where they were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. At the conclusion of the ceremony, and when they reached the door to take their exit as man and wife, the woman turned to her lawful spouse, and in tones of withering disgust, said, "NOW! I hope you're satisfied!" and turning on her heel, walked away in one direction, while the happy bridegroom left by another door. "That was a good start on marital happiness, wasn't it?" queried Backs.

Then there was the time when an ardent and eager bridegroom demanded that Backs return to the office about 7 o'clock one evening that he might get a license to wed the maiden of his choice. The obliging clerk, not wanting to defeat Cupid in any of his dealings, made the trip from his home to the office long after business hours and when, after a short interval, he heard the slow approach of someone in the building, he could distinguish but one pair of footsteps. It was a despondent bridegroom, who said, "Well, she backed out." And then his face brightened, "But I'll be back to see you again."

Two weeks passed and then one day Backs looked up to greet the same man—smiling and happy and accompanied by another woman. "Well, here I am again like I said, and this one won't get away!" he cried. And she didn't.

Mother Opposed Marriage

Then there was the couple who wished to wed and in whose ages was quite a discrepancy. The man was about 27 while the woman was at least 40 years old. His mother accompanied them in their application for a license and constantly interfered, declaring that her son was crazy and under her care and supervision. She was so loud in her complaints that the whole matter ended with the young man being examined for his sanity. When it was declared that he was mentally competent, the wedding took place and the trio left the justice's office and the courthouse to the accompaniment of ringing slaps on the bridegroom's ears by his late mother!

Speaking of weddings, Miss Mabel Wiseman, of Justice Kenneth Morrison's department, tells this one. It seemed that a very short time ago, a young pair from Los Angeles appeared to claim their license after the usual three days between the filing of the application and the securing of the important paper. They wanted Judge Morrison to marry them, but he was out of the office and not expected back before 11 o'clock. They took the delay calmly and said they would return at 11. In the meantime Morrison telephoned that he would be absent until 4 o'clock that afternoon, so when the would-be husband and wife returned, Miss Wiseman had to tell them of the second delay. "All right!" they said cheerfully, "we'll just go swimming—we wanted to anyway." And out they flew, to motor to Balboa and a dip in the ocean.

They returned at 4 o'clock, found the justice of the peace in and the knot was tied, but not until the bride assured Miss Wiseman that "it was the nicest swim I've had all summer."

Slaback Has Many Tales

Lester Slaback, court reporter, has a fund of tales of funny and unusual happenings which come to his attention in his solemn duty of attending court sessions to take down the evidence. For instance there was the time when even the judge found his dignity sorely tried, in a case involving the condemnation of some property in Laguna Beach.

One side was attempting to prove the property was valuable, the other side, that it was worthless. The piece in question ran down to a bluff and thence abruptly down to the beach. One witness was asked "what was on the beach?" The man replied, "Why nothing at all, Judge, except some of those red brick insulators." Apropos of which Slaback declared that if there were any place where insulators might come into their own, it would be at the beach.

It is against Slaback that many of Tracey Smith's amusing tales are directed and Smith is authority for the statement that Slaback, making a transcript of a certain trial, asked him, "Tracey, how many Fs are there in graphic?" to which Smith replied, "Well, Lester, if you're going to use any, you might just as well go the whole hog."

Smith tells the tale of the touchy woman in the court of the late Judge Z. B. West, who was called as a witness in a certain case, and who announced to her counsel, "Well, I'll say the best I can for this young man, but I don't want to be heckled!" Shortly after she was being questioned by the judge, who asked her to repeat something she previously had said. She bristled up like a wet hen, and cried in an aggrieved tone, "Now there you go, Judge, you're heckling me too!"

Naturally with his love of a joke, and his ability to enjoy it even when its on himself, Earl Abbey, clerk in department 3, can spin many a rollicking yarn of hilarious happenings in a dignified domain. Therefore it is with much glee that his associates recall a day last spring when Abbey, immaculate in the first white flannels of the season, was called to the county hospital on some special work connected with the court and a board of lunacy examiners, there to be greeted by an ancient inmate who, in a squeaky falsetto voice, said, "I 'low you drive the milk wagon."

Supervisors Not Exempt

Down in the supervisors' room, where that august board meets each Tuesday to settle the affairs of the county, if not the nation, the spirit of geniality always is uppermost and intermingled with serious business propositions is ever the give and take of understanding comrades. For instance the subject of thrrips in orange groves came up—and one rancher, who shall remain nameless, cried "Thrrips? Why say, there are exactly 28 million in that grove of mine!"

"What!" exclaimed one of his brother supervisors and growers. "There are no thrrips in that grove!" "Well," replied the other, "if you don't believe it, you just come down and count 'em."

But talking of jokes in serious places, everyone about the courthouse agrees that the funniest one of the season concerns Elmer Schaniel, clerk in department 2. Schaniel had been anticipating his vacation, which began with his departure from duty, Saturday, August 17, and which, as an ardent Legionnaire, he had planned with a view to attending the state convention of the American Legion, now in session in San Diego.

Last week, with his plans all completed, he was subpoenaed as a witness in a case to be tried in the superior court today. Schaniel had sworn the defendant in on the case and therefore is an important witness for the state. So today, while the convention in the southern city is at its peak, Schaniel, resentful, disappointed and painfully lacking in true vacation spirit, is once again in his accustomed haunts in the courthouse, waiting for the wheels of justice to move and free him to seek vacation trails.

Why did they wait for This New Pierce-Arrow?

Body and Engine by Pierce-Arrow—and Pierce-Arrow in every part!

The above question does not long remain unanswered after a glimpse of the new Straight Eight. And this is especially true if other fine cars are present for comparison.

The new Straight Eight was purposed to be the finest car that Pierce-Arrow ever produced. That it should also have been a remodeler of fine car fashions could not have been foreseen. But that is precisely what happened.

The long, low-swung slenderness of the new Pierce-Arrow was welcomed by fine car owners grown tired of bulk and stodginess in big automobiles. So great, in fact, was the conquest that Pierce-Arrow served a waiting-list for many months. And while demand still crowds production, some of the most favored models of the new Straight Eight line are now being locally shown.

Fullerton Council Sets Tax Rate At $1.77

STORM SEWER DATA SOUGHT BY CITY BODY

FULLERTON, Aug. 21.—The tax rate for the city of Fullerton for the coming year will be $1.77, it was decided last night at a meeting of the city council. At the first reading of the tax rate ordinance two weeks ago the rate was fixed at $1.75 thus lowering the rate of last year which was $1.80 but due to the fact that the amount that would go to the library would be greatly decreased, it was decided to raise the library fund from $115 to $135 thus causing the $0.02 increase over the first reading. The library fund for the coming year will be $16,807 as compared with $17,700 for the past year. The general fund will be $1,145 for bond interest and redemption. The budget and tax rate ordinance as amended were approved at the final reading.

A report was received from the street committee regarding the disposal of storm waters and submitted a plan to the council for the building of a storm sewer which would cost approximately $17,000. At the present time the water is carried in ditches across the streets but they have proven to be inadequate to carry storm waters and it was pointed out that even though these ditches were enlarged, they would fall to keep the water out of the streets. The street committee was instructed to continue its investigation and report to the council, later.

A petition signed by most of the merchants of the city was submitted to the trustees asking them to continue to pay $50 per month to a special night watchman in the business district. The merchants and the city have been hiring an officer to patrol the streets in front of the stores. The petition was read and placed on file.

Plans and specifications for the paving of North Harvard avenue were submitted by City Engineer C. M. Thorpe and were approved. The bids for the paving will be opened at the next council meeting and contracts awarded.

A report on the attitude of residents on North Spadra road regarding the proposed widening was presented to the board by Secretary Harry May of the Fullerton chamber. He stated that he had interviewed 20 residents in the proposed widening district and that only two were opposed to the project. Although some were sorry to lose parts of their front yards, they felt that it was necessary to widen the heavily travelled thoroughfare. May also said that a majority of the residents were in favor of keeping their park ways and setting the sidewalks back but felt that they, the property owners, should not be expected to bear much of the expense of the widening.

Discussion of the problem of whether or not the city should install a gas engine for the purpose of pumping the city water and lighting the ornamental lamps also occupied the attention of the councilmen. A report was heard from the Southern California Edison company wherein it was declared that it was much more economical for the city to have the power furnished by this company than to install a generating plant. The report was filed.

VACCINE DEVELOPED

A vaccine which is said to cure "shipping fever," scientifically known as Hemorrhagic Septicemia, has been developed by the U. S. department of agriculture. After injecting the vaccine into healthy animals, they were penned with infected ones. They did not "catch" the disease.

Early Days In California Told At Kiwanis Meet

BUENA PARK, Aug. 21.—Father and son night was a feature of the program of the Buena Park Kiwanis club meeting last evening. The prize for the oldest father present was awarded to J. E. Stone, of Artesia, father-in-law of George Trapp, who was 84. A Ricketts, of Grand avenue, a guest of I. D. Jaynes, is a few months younger than Mr. Stone.

Interesting talks on the early days in California were given by Mr. Stone and O. P. Bunyard, of Cypress. Mr. Stone entertained with stories, songs and dances of the Digger Indians, having lived near that tribe for many years.

George Trapp was program chairman for the evening. There were 34 present, including guests.

PAVING WORK BEFORE ORANGE CITY COUNCIL

ORANGE, Aug. 21.—The repaving of the 20-foot strip in the center of West Chapman avenue was up for a prolonged discussion at a meeting of the Orange city council yesterday afternoon.

A motion made by Councilman G. W. Shoemaker which provided for the repaving of the strip by the city and the application of $4000 of county money toward the project, was seconded by Councilman V. A. Wood. The motion was lost when Councilmen W. E. Clement, L. H. Intorf and Mayor Ross Miller voted against it.

A resolution showing the plans and specifications for the repaving of the strip was adopted and a resolution of intention to form an assessment district for the paving project was adopted. Councilmen Clement, Intorf and Miller voting "yes" and Councilmen Shoemaker and Wood voting "no" on both resolutions. The resolution of intention provides for the assessment district to be in excess of the $4000 of county money to be applied toward the paving.

The sides of West Chapman avenue were recently paved with concrete, leaving a strip of black paving in the center and councilmen expressed themselves as of the opinion that an entire concrete street would provide a better entrance to the city.

Protests on the repaving will be heard by the council on September 10.

An extension of 60 days on the contract of the Griffith and company was granted on the West Chapman avenue work.

Name Manager For Beach Club In San Clemente

SAN CLEMENTE, Aug. 21.—"Bud" N. Y. Fenwick is in charge of the San Clemente Beach club. He has reorganized the administration of the municipal pool and now has it on an efficient and effective basis. He reports patronage growing daily.

Fenwick played on the San Clemente ball club and was given a tryout with Seattle of the Pacific Coast league here last spring. Before coming to the village Fenwick worked for a year in the Bank of America in Long Beach.

REPORTS SHOW CHURCH GAIN IN COSTA MESA

COSTA MESA, Aug. 21.—The fourth quarterly conference was held in the chapel of the Community church Monday evening, following a pot-luck supper held in the social hall at 6:30 p. m. with 75 present. Dr. J. Lewis Gilles, district superintendent, presided.

The following resolution was adopted by unanimous vote: "Resolved that we highly commend the Rev. Lyman R. Bayard, our pastor, for his splendid services to us and that we appreciate same, and in view of the letter by him read in our presence by Dr. J. Lewis Gilles, the matter be considered by our district superintendent and the pastoral committee, that if it be the will of God that he should return to us, it should be so."

A dozen members and friends of the work here expressed appreciation of the Rev. Mr. Lyman Bayard's work in Costa Mesa during the past three years of his pastorate.

Reports were given from each department of the church. The Sunday school reported 25 scholars enrolled, with an average attendance of 252, with 37 officers and teachers. The Rev. Grow S. Brown is superintendent.

The pastor's report showed a substantial increase in membership, 61 being added this past year, also a 50 per cent increase of original membership since he took charge here. A new church was built and a pipe organ installed. Three hundred and fifty calls were made, parents and organ recitals were given and also a series of revival meetings under Ted Evans, evangelist.

Mrs. E. L. Bennett reported on the daily vacation Bible school as in session four weeks with 89 pupils attending, with a percentage attendance of 94 per cent, 32 pupils having perfect attendance.

Mrs. E. A. Randall, president of the Ladies' Aid society, reported 57 paid up members, with 1379 calls, 193 bouquets and $462.26 raised.

The Missionary society, with Mrs. E. L. Bennett, president, has a membership of 26. The appointment for both home and foreign missionary work was met. Funds, fruit and bedding were sent to hospitals and homes. A total of $105.35 was expended for home work and $85.00 for foreign. The relief department of the society under leadership of Mrs. O. O. Bland, is growing each year. This year over 200 pieces of wearing apparel for women and children, as well as 66 garments for men, were placed.

A Junior league, with Mrs. L. R. Bayard as leader, reported a thriving organization.

The building fund has had $3933.83 paid on its account.

The Epworth League, with Lee Belding as president, reported rapid strides.

NEW CHURCH FOR MEXICANS PLANNED

PLACENTIA, Aug. 21.—As a result of the tent meetings which Baptist workers held among the Mexicans in Placentia this summer, a Mexican Baptist church is to be built.

The Rev. John R. Janeway, of Yorba Linda, former pastor of the Mexican church at Atwood, has been appointed by the Baptist board to take over this pastorate. He will have the Placentia district in his charge, and possibly La Jolla. The work is being supported by the Baptist state board, the Baptist churches of Fullerton and Anaheim and Calvary church, Placentia.

Benito Acosta, of Placentia, has decided to the new church a lot, 32 by 60 feet, on the corner of Walnut and Baker streets. During his life time he will receive a small rental for the property, which will go to the church at his death. A small building on the lot will be used temporarily as a church, and will be used as a house for the pastor when the new church is built.

START WORK ON CITRUS PACKING PLANT IN YORBA LINDA BY SEPTEMBER 1

YORBA LINDA, Aug. 21.—With the return of V. C. Dillingham, president of the board of directors of the Yorba Linda Citrus association, work on the plans for the new packing house is completed. Construction is expected to start on the new building by September 1.

At a meeting of the board of directors yesterday, the question of the advisability of building a large packing house was raised. The plans as presented by the building committee call for a building 362 feet by 100 feet, this to be used for lemons only, while the old Poothill Grove house recently acquired by the association would be used for oranges. Some members were of the opinion that a larger house would not be necessary, as many lemon groves are being inter-set with oranges and will eventually be removed. Manager P. W. Damon stated that in his opinion storage room for at least 200 cars of fruit would be needed.

E. M. Wheatland, of Whittier, was present and submitted an architectural sketch of the front elevation of the proposed building, and tentative floor plans. It was suggested by Dr. Wickett that a building occupying such a prominent position in the town should be made as beautiful as possible, and that the P. E. tracks should be changed to the south side of the building.

OLE HANSON'S GUEST PRAISES SAN CLEMENTE

SAN CLEMENTE, Aug. 21.—Tom Dillon, managing editor of the Minneapolis Tribune, who is visiting Ole Hanson, founder and builder of the Spanish village, expressed amazement at the city's growth.

"In the middle west we have heard about San Clemente and the development on the south coast of your state," he said, "but being skeptical we discounted most of it. But this village and your Southern California coast is a reality, a unique city in American civilization. It's all that it's painted, a move in a distinctive expression of American living. I congratulate Mr. Hanson on his vision and the energy needed to build San Clemente."

Dillon, accompanied by his wife and son, is vacationing in California. In 1919, when Hanson started his American speaking tour after stamping out the "Red" uprising in Seattle and settling the "great strike," he took Dillon with him as secretary and advance man. Dillon, veteran newspaperman, later left Hanson to enter politics in an editorial capacity and then became managing editor of the Minneapolis Tribune.

ORANGE COUNCIL ACCEPTS ADDITION

ORANGE, Aug. 21.—Proceedings for the annexation of a strip of land lying west of Orange and to be called the fourth addition to Orange, were completed at a meeting of the city council yesterday, when the vote on a recent election was canvassed and the territory formally accepted as a part of the city of Orange.

An ordinance regarding the stop signals that were to be placed on Glassell street and Chapman avenue where these streets join the plaza square was up for second reading. The ordinance was not passed. Councilman L. H. Intorf introduced a measure whereby an arrow on the pavement would direct the flow of traffic around the plaza and slow signs and a reminder of the 15-mile speed limit would lessen traffic hazards at these crossings. The suggestion received the approval of the council.

A letter from the attorney general was presented by City Clerk Paul Clark. The attorney general stated that while the matter was not under his jurisdiction, he was of the same opinion as City Attorney H. L. Dearing in regard to the legality of an ordinance which would prohibit the posting of pictures of women smoking on billboards in the city.

TUSTIN

TUSTIN, Aug. 21.—Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Robinson have returned from an extended trip up the northern coast, going as far as Grants Pass by way of the Redwood highway. They returned by way of San Francisco and Sacramento and stopped off at Santa Cruz and Big Basin.

Mrs. C. A. Vance and daughters, Charlotte and Louise, have returned from a week's stay at Idyllwild.

Elwood Ritner, Glenn Eustis and Elizabeth Robinson left from Tustin Monday for the Pacific Palisades, where they will attend the conference of the Baptist young people for a period of 12 days. Mr. Deaver, who is very ill in the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harvey Ritner, remains about the same in health.

Mr. and Mrs. George Smith are spending a week at Big Bear.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Prescott and Mrs. J. W. Rice have returned from a week's stay at Chad's Camp, Big Bear, as guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Chastburn.

Mrs. C. M. Brockman, of Redlands, is visiting this week with Mrs. J. A. Prescott.

A Ladies' Aid food sale was held in Tustin, Saturday. A profit was made.

LIONS OF MESA HEAR TALKS AT TUESDAY MEET

COSTA MESA, Aug. 21.—The Tuesday luncheon of the Lions' club held in the clubhouse was unusually interesting as a variety of talks were given.

Judge C. B. Diehl, was the star entertainer defending himself against mock charges brought several weeks ago at a meeting.

M. B. McBride, of Long Beach, gave an interesting vacation trip resume and gave a vivid description of a cloudburst near Forest Home, when all the streams ran wild.

E. A. Spaulding, who returned recently from a summer's stay at Santa Barbara, gave an account of conditions there. M. B. McBride, of Long Beach, and his nephew, Joe Crouch, of Glendale, were visitors.

San Clemente To Have Orchestra In Near Future

SAN CLEMENTE, Aug. 21.—J. C. Thompson, well known music leader, is planning on organizing a band or orchestra of San Clemente players. Thompson, who with his wife has taken charge of the Social club, says that he will call a meeting in the near future at the club rooms of all those interested in music. If enough enthusiasts turn out he will organize a musical body.

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson came from Montana to California. In Billings, Mont., from 1914 to 1922 Thompson was head of the band department of the Lowenkamp conservatory and conducted a band at the Billings Polytechnic Institute. His last musical work before coming to San Clemente was the organization of a band of 42 pieces in Billings.

Definite figures will be given for this particular need. Fire plugs, water mains and insurance will enter into the cost.

FIRE DISTRICT BENEFITS TOLD BY BEACH CHIEF

COSTA MESA, Aug. 21.—F. W. Crocker, fire chief of Newport Beach gave a working plan for forming a fire district for Costa Mesa and explained benefits and protection through a fire district, at the meeting held at the Green-er building last evening.

Another meeting will be called in the near future and a representative from Buena Park will tell how residents there formed a fire district and will present figures as to the actual cost of a district after being formed.

Definite figures will be given for this particular need. Fire plugs, water mains and insurance will enter into the cost.

DEMAND...

I am sure you will agree with me that automobile buyers have always demanded smoothness, flexibility, freedom from vibration and rumble in the cars they bought; and those of you who could afford to do so, paid the price to get these advantages in the higher-priced six-cylinder car, but those who were not so fortunate were forced to be satisfied with a car at a price they could afford to pay.

But now, anyone can have all this smoothness, flexibility and freedom from vibration and rumble for half the price in the Chevrolet Six; to be specific, $732 delivered here, for the coupe or the two-door sedan—only $4 more than the 1928 four-cylinder Chevrolet.

It has been proven beyond question, by Chevrolet, that an outstanding desirable six-cylinder car can be built and sold for the price of a four, providing the manufacturer has a proven product and has the public confidence and the demand so large volume can be reached.

This confidence in Chevrolet has placed over a million Chevrolet Six-cylinder cars in the hands of owners from January 1 to August 5, exactly 217 days (3 cars delivered every minute, twenty-four hours each day, Sundays and holidays included).

Many of these cars have already been driven by owners more than 25,000 miles. If you question the desirability and reliability of this six, you can easily prove their worth to your entire satisfaction—ask any of our owners, they are the judge and jury—they know and will tell you truthfully.

I want you to drive this six—I want you to examine it in the smallest detail—I want you to compare it with any six-cylinder car made—I want you to open your mind and your eyes—I want you to see for yourself what tremendous progress has been made by careful planning, years of testing and proving, and knowing what to do and how to do it economically. Come in.

Roads to Romance

MOTOR MATES WILL MAKE FRISCO VISIT

Jack and Ethyl, the Associated Motor Mates, will be found in San Francisco as tonight's episode in the "Roads to Romance" series is broadcast through NBC system stations, including KFI, between 8 and 8:30.

Portsmouth Square, the center of San Francisco in the early days, is the scene of the episode and Jack and Ethyl will hear the romantic story of the raising of the Stars and Stripes in San Francisco July 9, 1846, by Captain Montgomery, of the warship Portsmouth.

The love story of Natalie Richardson and Jacob Brown is dramatized, describing the part these young people played in the raising of the American flag in Portsmouth Square. The famous square originally was a potato patch, Jack and Ethyl learn, and to Jacob Richardson goes the credit for making it the town center. Richardson was harbor commissioner in 1835 and to him went the task of laying out the town which was to become a metropolis of the West.

DRAMA TO FEATURE KGO HOUR TONIGHT

A special drama, "A Russian Wedding Night," written for the KGO Players by Meredith Sawyer, will be offered over the General Electric station at 9 o'clock tonight, with Wilda Wilson Church directing.

The play depicts a wedding in Russia and the journey afterwards by sleigh to the nearest railway station. As the bride and groom pass through the forest on their way to the station they are attacked by wolves. The interest and the climax of the story lies in their escape.

ARDEN AND OHMAN ON VICTOR PROGRAM

Victor Arden and Phil Ohman, popular ticklers of the ivories, will be the stars of the Victor half-hour of dance music from station WEAF, over the coast-to-coast network of the NBC, including KGO, from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m., coast time, tomorrow.

These two pianistic interpreters of modern dance-compelling tunes are said to have caused more rags to be rolled back than any other pair of artists on the air. Both are exclusive Victor stars and started out originally as individual soloists in the days when recording difficulties made the reproduction of piano music a hazardous undertaking.

On the occasion of the Victor broadcast they will play their own special interpretation of the latest dance hits exactly as they have recorded them for Victor. The feature of their performance will be the playing of "Lover Come Back to Me" with a special arrangement of their own never before heard on the air.

500 Residents Of Elsinore Arrange Picnic At Beach

SAN CLEMENTE, Aug. 21.—The city of Elsinore will close up August 28 and come in a body to picnic at San Clemente, according to word received here by Capt. H. H. Hammer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, as a result of a visit to this city by A. W. Stewart, of Elsinore. The picnic will bring more than 500 people to the Spanish village, Captain Hammer has been informed.

Elsinore will close every business establishment, it is said.

PICNIC ENJOYED

LA HABRA, Aug. 21.—As a farewell to Sherman Smothers, who has been visiting his son, C. V. Smothers, and John Troutman and family, a picnic was enjoyed at Irvine park Sunday by a number of relatives and friends. Mr. Smothers and the Troutmans are leaving for their homes in South English, Ia., Wednesday, after six weeks' visit with relatives in La Habra and Anaheim. Those enjoying the day were Mr. and Mrs. Chris. Bamesberger, Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Troutman, Miss Nina McGhee and Henry Bamesberger, of Anaheim; John Troutman and daughters, Mary and Dollie, and son, Raymond, and Sherman Smothers, of South English Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Smothers and daughters, Joyce and Shirley, of La Habra; Mrs. C. A. Troutman and W. L. Troutman, of Anaheim.

MIDWAY CITY

MIDWAY CITY, Aug. 21.—Mrs. David W. Whittett and daughter, Virginia Whittett of Loyal, Mass., are guests for a few days in the home of her cousin, A. C. Whittett, superintendent of the Central Memorial park. The visitors are on a short vacation and will return home in time for the opening of school.

Miss Dedah Gilbert, of Santa Ana, is to be the soloist at the Sunday evening church services at the Midway City church of the Nazarene, it is announced. Miss Gilbert is a well-known soloist, having just returned from an eastern tour which she made as the singer for party of evangelists.

Mr. and Mrs. Rooney are away on a 10-day motor vacation trip to San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Galloway and son, Normand Eugene, of Colton, came Tuesday to the home of Mrs. Galloway's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Woodson, and are spending the week with them.

Dear Aimee:

Really, my dear, I've always thought that "service" meant something about Rotary and Kiwanis—I never DREAMED that it was so important to a radio store. Honestly, the Preston Radio Co. have me in tears over the way they take it so seriously.

They just simply MADE OVER my old Atwater-Kent radio and you'd thought I was buying a Rolls Royce when I paid them the $3.00. It's something about them being Atwater-Kent experts and knowing all about it, if you know what I mean.

If the way they treat you is "service," then hurrah for Rotary and Kiwanis.

16 REMAIN IN U. S. WOMEN'S TITLE TOURNEY

BY WILLIAM J. DUNN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

FOREST HILLS, L. I., Aug. 21.—The annual National Women's tennis championships reached their third round at the West Side Tennis club here today, with 16 of 64 starters still in the competition for the title now held by Helen Wills.

Miss Wills' record of only one game lost in two two-set matches has tended to serve as an indication that the champion is thoroughly prepared for the rigid defense of her laurels.

Helen faced Miss Alice Francis, of Orange, N. J., in her third match today. As usual, no one conceded her opponent even an out side chance.

The appearance, however, of sturdy Betty Nuthall in the championship lists demanded a good share of the attention of spectators.

Another player in the spotlight was Sarah Palfrey, a minute package of tennis ability from Brookline, Mass., who provided the greatest sensation of the season yesterday by halting Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron, of Great Britain, in three thrilling sets. Only 16 years of age, Sarah actually startled followers of the game with the ability she displayed.

Helen Jacobs, second only to Miss Wills in the American line up, opposed Mrs. B. C. Covell, fourth among the invaders and Mrs. Phoebe Watson, second seeded foreign star, was matched with Mrs. L. A. Harper, of San Francisco, seventh in the American seeding.

and Schiff, after a brief examination of the boxer's protective cup, gave him the match.

Young Sport decisively outpointed Ned Herman, the little clown being down twice in the second. Sport, a former amateur champion, was entirely too fast and clever for Herman.

Urban Hernandez sprung a surprise by stopping Paul Chaney in the first round.

ACORNS CINCH FLAG BY BEATING ORANGE

Long Beach officially clinched the championship of the Orange County Night Baseball league by routing Orange, 12 to 0, at Long Beach last evening.

The Acorns were virtually "in" before the contest as they could get no worse than a tie, even if they lost to Orange and also to Olive in a game yet to be held, but they made their title mathematically certain by blanking the Orangemen, who were able to get but two hits off Lichtenwalter, the same hurler who recently allowed the same club but one safety. Price and Talmadge worked for Orange.

NOT A BAD JOB

Crabtree and Goodbread, two of the bog stars of the Florida University varsity football team, worked during the summer as life guards on the fashionable beach at Rye, N. Y.

BOBBY JONES, GOLF ACE, DUE IN SOUTH

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—California golfers were on edge today in preparation to receive Bobby Jones, king of amateur golfers, who will step on Golden State soil late this afternoon for the first time in his life.

Jones will stop in Los Angeles on his way to the northern part of the state to defend his United States amateur title over the fast Pebble Beach course the week of September 2 to 7.

MAHAN, RESTING ON KNEE, COUNTED OUT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 21.—The brows of those who take their boxing seriously were knitted today as fight followers pondered over the latest "unusual" boxing match, the technical six-round knockout last night of "Dummy" Mahan by "Gorilla" Jones, negro welterweight from Ohio.

Mahan, who is unable to hear or speak, knelt serenely on one knee and a gloved fist while Referee Billy Burke tolled off 10 fatal counts and declared "Gorilla" the victor.

No sooner had Burke finished his counting than Mahan leaped up, apparently ready to fight Jones for the remainder of the round, if not for the entire fight, which was scheduled for 10 frames.

Jones was piling up a heavy margin when the fight ended suddenly.

Johnny Torres and Huerta Evans fought six rounds to a draw in the semi-windup and Wally Frazer beat Tom Morgan in the special event.

WANTS TO BE HARD

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Attempts have been made on the life of ELISE MARBERRY, an American girl owning considerable property near the town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil. She has escaped harm due to the shrewdness of her cousin and protector, VILAK, who with his friend, LINCOLN NUNNALLY, an elderly American chemist, is trying to learn the reason for the strange enmity for Elise.

Living near Porto Verde is one GAYLORD PRENTISS, a strange and forbidding character, who has evinced a hatred for Elise.

TINKY, Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew, is kidnapped. A native reports Prentiss has been seen with the baby. The trail leads into the jungle.

Calamity overtakes the expedition. Vilak organizes in pursuit. Native trackers are injured or desert. Treachery breaks out.

Elise, Vilak and Nunnally finally emerge from the jungle. Presently they come to the outskirts of a strange city, resembling the old Inca civilization. Here they are made prisoners. They discover they are in the power of CARLOS D'ALBENTARA, whom they had known as an engineer back in Porto Verde.

The ruler of the city decides to marry Elise and to put Vilak and Nunnally to death. They are to be tortured at the feast of Raym, as are Elise's nephew and Prentiss. The feast day arrives and a friendly Indian elope a dagger to Vilak, who breaks away and with Nunnally stands at bay as the astonished natives press slowly toward him.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

The child near the altar began to cry lustily once more. Vilak's smile faded. He grew silent. D'Albentara and Batalagos continued to hold their excited parley. Then the soldiers in front of the chief began moving toward the steps in a wide semi-circle, their spears outstretched.

Batalagos followed at a safe distance. D'Albentara at his side, Vilak grew tense. Slowly he descended the steps toward them. "Halt!" he shouted.

"The soldiers gave no sign of hearing, impassively continued their advance. 'Halt!' he cried again.

Again they gave no heed. He descended two more steps. They were now only twenty feet away. "Halt!" he called again. At the same instant he whipped a box of matches from his pocket and struck a match upon the sandy paper along its edge. It lighted. He tossed the flaming match over his head. In quick succession he lighted all the matches the box contained and tossed them dexterously in a circle over him, so that at moments his head appeared to be surrounded by a fiery halo.

This time the soldiers halted. While they did not flee in panic as had done the Indians in the camp of Bagarundi, and though the expression of their gloomy faces indicated that this was not the first time they had seen fire thus artificially produced, yet they were undoubtedly impressed. A few prostrated themselves. The face of Batalagos was that of a puzzled, dill-witted child.

Vilak continued to light the matches until all but one of the boxes was exhausted. Then he drew himself up regally. "Listen, O people. Listen O soldiers. Listen, O Batalagos," he roared in a voice of thunder. Batalagos backed farther away. A fat Indian prostrated himself.

"Listen, O people. Listen, O soldiers. Listen, O chief. It is the voice of the fire who speaks to you. For I am the son of the fire. I and those whose came with me to this land, all, all are children of the fire, sons and daughters of the fire. Harm us and the fire shall sweep down from the heavens and slay you swift as the eagle slays the dove. For we are the children of the fire. Yes, more, we are the masters of the fire. In our land of the gods where we dwell far, far away, there fire paces our canoes swifter than the arrow and fire drives our ox-carts faster than the wind. These are true things, O people. Those of you who have wandered to the land of the gods have seen. The nature of the fire is two. It is good, it is evil. Harm us, and the fire shall wither and destroy you; obey us, and the fire shall bless you." He paused a moment.

The savages stirred restlessly. The chief's bewilderment increased. He turned to the Portuguese and gazed at him questioningly. D'Albentara smiled affably. "Batalagos is wise," he said. "Batalagos has before seen the little sticks which flash into fire. These have I brought to Batalagos when I first come to his city. Batalagos knows the true from the false. Batalagos knows that this is not a god, but a man. A man full of evil."

Batalagos took off his feathered helmet and scratched his kinky head. "Batalagos wise," he muttered. "Yes, Batalagos wise. Batalagos see before little sticks make flame. See iron stick too which high priest have. Iron stick which make flame, kill bird far, far off. All fire sticks magic sticks. Yes, Batalagos wise. Batalagos think man not god. But how Batalagos know? Man got little firestick, maybe man got big fire, iron stick. Maybe man got, too. Got high priest's ring; stand in temple of sun and sun not strike. If man god, then what happen to Batalagos?"

D'Albentara was about to reply. He checked himself to listen as Vilak on the steps above went on with his oration.

The American, stretched out his arms. "Listen, O people. Listen, O soldiers. Listen, O Batalagos!" he repeated in deep, powerful tones. "The voice of the sun speaks again, the child of the fire speaks again."

He lighted a few more matches and tossed them about his head. "I hear murmurings; I see faces. There are doubts. 'He is not a god,' say those who think they are wise. He is but a man. But a man! Let those who so speak beware. Now let there be no more murmurings—let there be no more doubting. For I, the son of the fire, will show that I am the son of the fire. As you sit around your fires when the nights grow cool, your wise men tell of the gods who when the world was young walked through the fire.

"Behold, I, this second day of the feast of Raym, now when the world is old, will walk through the fire as did the gods my brothers in the days when the world was young. For I am the son of the fire, and the fire which destroys man, will only bless and caress me, its son."

A gasp of awe went up from the multitude. Batalagos paled. "White man god," he muttered to D'Albentara. "If white man do this, he god. Batalagos know. Batalagos wise. Only god walk through fire."

O'Albentara coolly twisted the ends of his mustache. "He is a man, Batalagos. He will not walk."

Vilak slowly resumed his descent of the stairs, the old man close behind him. The black figures below began to press back against their fellows.

D'Albentara took a few steps forward. He smiled at Vilak affably. "You are clever, amigos," he said in his perfect Portuguese, taking care to keep well out of reach in case Vilak should make a sudden lunge toward him. "Very clever. But this you cannot do. At once could I kill you. With my revolver, or your own that I have taken from you. But this will I let you try. For when you fall, your death will be even more interesting than I had planned. Interesting and most helpful to me, amigos. Most helpful." He stepped back into the crowd.

Vilak reached the stone pavement at the foot of the steps. Here he halted a moment. The old man peered at him anxiously. "You can't... er... do it, Vilak. You can't," he murmured. "I know you can do many things. Yes, many. But not this. This is... er... magic... magic. It's impossible. D'Albentara was right. It'll only make things worse. Worse." He shook his head, then added hesitantly as though half ashamed of his lack of confidence. "You can't do it, can you? You?"

"Don't you worry, Nanny. I can do it. I told you it's a trick. And I happen to know how this trick is worked. I've never done it before, but that's no reason why I can't begin."

They made their way to the one-armed idol. Batalagos, who had followed at a distance, pointed to the sacred fire, burning in its enclosure of triangular stone. "White man, white god, walk through that?" he grunted.

Vilak scowled. "This fire is as nothing in the sight of the son of the fire. He will walk through a fire as long as the bodies of five men stretched head to foot and foot to head upon the ground. Nay, the bodies of fifteen men."

Another gasp of awe arose from the spectators. In a few moments he gave a few commands to the soldiers near the bulky chief. A number of rude, shovel-like implements were brought. The stone flags forming the pavement of the court were pried out and a swarm of excited chattering natives were soon digging a trench a foot in depth, eight or ten feet in width, and eighty feet in length extending from the base of the altar toward the temple.

The noise of the workers frightened the child on the stone; it began to cry. Vilak spoke briskly to Batalagos. After a brief argument with D'Albentara the child was released and put in the arms of a somberly tattooed black woman. Elise was brought out once more in a litter and took a seat in the pavilion. The wives of the chief who were to officiate at her marriage at sunset grouped themselves about her. She saw Tinky, but perceiving that he was not injured, made no attempt to reach him, but concentrated her gaze upon her cousin, stalking up and down between the ranks of busy laborers.

The ditch was completed; Vilak ordered it to be filled with great heaps of brush. This done, he humbled a meaningless ritual and struck a match to the wood. It flamed quickly, then became a mass of

THE FUMIGATOR'S VACATION
O The Fumigator's happy for we got the other day
A couple weeks' vacation as is usual, with pay.
And if you doubt a glorious time is possible at home,
We'll take you thru Orange county now, so listen to our pome.

The first two days we spent at home cleaning up the yard. Besides for sanitary purposes there's health to guard; The third day being Friday we went down to sea in ships To catch big fish, but failing that, we swam where big tide rips.

The fourth day at Laguna for its scenery and art, Such pleasure there awaited we glowing embers.
On top of this he carefully supervised the placing of several layers of the lava rock with which the region abounded. Soon this, too, was a glowing expanse of vermillion from which leaped here and there tiny blue flames as some metal in the lava was consumed in the intense heat, or great crackling bursts of fire as some branch of harder texture than the others ignited.

It was now almost midday, the time set for the sacrifice of Prentiss and the child. The priests made their gloomy preparations. One of them took Tinky from its black, feminine guardian and brought it to the altar-stone under the shadow of the idol's extended arm. Here he waited.

(To Be Continued)
Can Vilak walk through the fire as he has boasted? If he can, it means the salvation of his friends. If he fails, a cruel death.

could hardly wait to start; fifth to San Clemente—Spanish village by the sea, To chat with clever people or ride horse with pedigree.

The sixth and seventh joyous days we spent at Irvine park, A stuffin' full of things to eat each day till after dark; The eighth up mountain canyon where Modjeska's home looms grand, And up at cool La Vida Springs far off from silver strand.

The ninth vacation day at Capistrano we will stroll Among the stately ruins where the Mission bells will toll; The tenth we'll drive to Cypress past the quaint old sorghum mill. Then double back thru Garden Grove another day to kill.

The whole of eleventh will be spent in Santa Ana's clime, Where one would like to spend a month if one just had the time, To shop and see the movie shows, but on you I'll prevail: Drive slow and see the city—drive fast and see the jail.

The twelfth day to the Plaza go, where Orange's people meet To settle world-wide issues and vacationists to greet; The thirteenth day in Anaheim where in her park you play, To the City park in Fullerton to spend the fourteenth day.

We'd like to mention Brea, Costa Mesa, Buena Park, Placentia, Newport, Tustin, Yorba Linda for a lark; Huntington Beach, La Habra, other towns in easy reach, If thrills are what you're looking for you'll get a few in each.

So now our trip is over—don't you see it hardly pays To leave old Orange county just to spend vacation days? And if, perchance, you have another leisure day to spare, You'll get a whole vacation taking in THE COUNTY FAIR!

VIEWS OF THE NEWS
The Federal Farm Board is trying to get the farmers together, and if it succeeds in getting the farmers together there won't be any more need of a Federal Farm Board.

The airship that landed at the Capitol steps not only let a Senator out, but took some Congressional air in.

MILLION SHELL SPECIMENS IN ISLAND HOME

As a result of 10 years of earnest, enthusiastic collecting, F. R. Aldrich, wealthy retired banker, has one of the finest shell and marine specimen collections in the state.

Over 1,000,000 specimens, most of which are flawlessly preserved and mounted, are on exhibition at the Aldrich home on Bay island, and work is now being done on what will be one of the most perfectly equipped marine museums of its size on the coast. Huge windows present a wide view of Newport bay, which the new building faces, and cathedral glass windows, on two sides of the room will shed colored lights on the specimen tables.

A continuous line of abalone shells is to be hung in rows along the paneled ceiling, which is 9½ feet high, and salt water tanks will be used to exhibit marine specimens, according to Aldrich. On the second floor of the exhibition building is a veritable "model apartment" which Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich will occupy during the winter months while their own home is razed to the ground, to be succeeded by a modern two-story stucco home designed in conformity to the new show building. Sea-green tile and green hand-decorated shelves and appliances have been used in the kitchen, and tile floor and walls in the bathroom, which is done in vivid yellow.

The entire building and a great many of the plans for the new house have been done by Mr. and Mrs. Aldrich, and the contracting by N. O. Mellott, contractor, Costa Mesa.

Millard Schubach, 10-year-old grandson of Aldrich, is an ardent shell collector, and accompanies his grandfather on daily expeditions during the summer months.

Millard Schubach, 10-year-old names and descriptions of nearly all my different shells," Aldrich declares.

Among a group of recent visitors to the Aldrich home, a man who saw the perfectly matched strand of olive shells strung with small gold beads, offered repeatedly to buy the necklace. On being firmly refused, he finally left. Aldrich learned a short time later that this visitor was one of the buyers for one of the largest jewelry establishments in America.

Hundreds of boxes containing rare shells, sea urchins, glass sponges and other strange sea life await mounting in the new exhibition building, yet each day Aldrich devotes his time to finding still more treasures, and visitors from all parts of the state throng daily to visit the home which Aldrich has opened to the general public. Those who have seen the wonderful collection agree that the Aldrich home on Bay island is fit to be classed among the "show places of the Southland."

Farm co-operatives and extension services function similarly, according to C. W. Warburton, director of the U. S. department of agriculture's extension work. The object of both organizations is to increase the income and improve living conditions of the farmer. Extension services prepare the way for co-operatives, Warburton says.

SCIENTIST ARRANGES TEST

Dr. A. A. Michelson, world famous scientist, in his laboratory in Pasadena. Dr. Michelson plans to conduct exhaustive experiments on the speed of light on the Irvine ranch in Orange county.

Pasadena Light Expert Preparing For New Experiment Here

Dr. A. A. Michelson, who is called "Mike" by his closest friends, and looks but 40 years despite his 76 years, plans to make history in Orange county. He wants to determine the exact velocity of light.

Down on the Irvine ranch near the Eddie Martin airport, Dr. Michelson, known throughout the world as a supreme authority on light, is having a mile-long underground vacuum tube built. Dr. Michelson will flash a light back and forth by means of mirrors until the ray has been increased to four or five miles in length.

The scientist is confident that measurement of this ray will refine his present value of 186,284 miles a second for the velocity of light.

Noted Authority
This world-famous physicist is the supreme authority on light, the swiftest thing that travels. His curiosity about light seems insatiable and, before he was 30, he had measured its speed with amazing accuracy. Since then he has done it still more accurately.

A few years ago, by flashing a light from one mountain top to another 8½ miles away, and back again, he was able to check the velocity of light with an error of only 10 miles in 186,000 miles.

But this tiny error was enough to arouse discontent in a mind such as his. And so, as his last great contribution to science, we find Dr. Michelson preparing to conduct the most intensive experiment of the kind ever made.

Predicts Accuracy
The scientist is reticent about speaking of the new experiments. "I would rather not say anything until I have completed the vacuum tube, which I believe will accurately complete the light speed tables," he said.

"I do believe, though, that the results of my new experiments will have a far-reaching practical application. In fact, it is highly probable they will revolutionize present surveying methods. Under the present surveying system it would take about two years to survey a tract of land 250 miles long. By my method of flashing light at different points along the line and computing the time it takes the light to travel, I estimate it would be possible to make the survey in a few days."

Dr. Michelson lives in terms of light. It is to him what colors are to a painter. He can't look at an insect's wings or a rainbow without thinking of them in terms of light. He interprets the cosmos with it.

Books Rewritten
So ingenious is he that science has been given a new purpose and direction, text books have had to be rewritten, a whole new physics has been erected on a single experiment of his, and he started Einstein on the train of reasoning that gave us the theory of relativity—a new conception of space, time, motion and reality itself.

Michelson scarcely looks his part. He is not more than five feet eight and weighs about 135 pounds. Yet, at 76, he is as active as a young man.

His hair is hardly touched with gray. He can play tennis for several hours and come up fresh after a shower. He doesn't like to walk, plays poker and bridge, goes to bed early and sleeps late, eats meagerly and prefers cigars to cigarettes. His eyes flash with ready wit and human understanding. He is punctilious in all matters of etiquette and dress. He paints pictures, mostly woodland scenes, and until a few years ago was a student in a life class in drawing. He is called "Mike" by his closest friends.

And, above all, this man knows more about light than any other human being. For 50 years he has studied it, experimenting far beyond the frontiers of knowledge. By means of what he has learned he has increased tremendously what we know about the world we live in and the universe of which we are a part.

Santa Ana, the county seat and considered very closely connected with the coast section, has spent over $80,000 on paving this year, over $500,000 on homes, has built numerous streets and bridges, has more than $1,000,000 in new buildings so far this year, has passed a school bond issue and carried on many other improvements in keeping with its position as the largest city of the county.

These brief accounts of civic programs were given in response to a questionnaire sent out recently by Harry Welch, secretary of the organization, to the local chamber secretaries.

PROGRESS OF COAST CITED AT GATHERING

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 21.—A story of remarkable progress along the coast of Orange county was related here last night at the monthly meeting of the Orange County Coast association at the Newport Harbor Yacht club.

From Seal Beach, on the border of Los Angeles county, to San Clemente, almost on the San Diego county border, wonderful growth and development is taking place, and millions of dollars being spent, in realty transactions, buildings, bridges, roads and streets, sewers, curbs, lighting systems, water system, sewer systems, piers and marine development and tree planting.

Seal Beach representatives told of the development of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric company, totaling several millions, and Sunset Beach of the $1,000,000 sale of beach property and a big effort in building there this season.

Huntington Beach, through President Tom Talbert of the association and others, related the purchase of 3900 feet of beach by the city at $100 a front foot, $100,000 being paid in cash, of a new lighting system and numerous buildings.

Eugene Fenelon, building inspector of Newport Beach, talked eloquently of the $1,000,000 Lido Isle development, of the fact that the harbor entrance is in better condition than at any previous time, of the big increase in building and in assessed valuations and of numerous other evidences of civic development.

Laguna has spent $189,000 on paving, $150,000 on public and semi-public buildings, and $216,000 on homes, and is planning a $300,000 civic center, a pier and a municipal plunge, among other improvements, while Dana Point also has carried out and is completing a big paving and water program, as well as a pier. Ole Hanson's Spanish village of San Clemente is grading eight miles of streets, putting in a water system and sewer system, planting 5000 trees and installing a $35,000 golf club, to add to the numerous other clubs, pier, etc., already installed.

San Juan Capistrano is devoting most of its energies to the building of the road from Elsinore while Capistrano Beach is putting in many street, curbs, etc., and 600 feet of sewer lines a day. A large number of beach homes have been built there this summer, it was announced.

Costa Mesa, according to Dr. C. G. Huston, has a big new business block and is organizing a fire district, and hoping to strike oil. Donald J. Dodge also told of progress being made on the organization of a new high school district by Newport Beach and Costa Mesa.

Santa Ana, the county seat and considered very closely connected with the coast section, has spent over $80,000 on paving this year, over $500,000 on homes, has built numerous streets and bridges, has more than $1,000,000 in new buildings so far this year, has passed a school bond issue and carried on many other improvements in keeping with its position as the largest city of the county.

VICTORIOUS AUXILIARY SINGERS, DIRECTOR

Victorious in the state contest staged between Legion Auxiliary Glee clubs as a feature of the annual convention of the California American Legion and Legion auxiliaries now in session in San Diego, the members of the Santa Ana organization as pictured, were today receiving congratulatory telegrams from their friends. Cecyl Fross Willits, director, is to be seen seated in the front row, the fifth from the left. In the front row from left to right are Mesdames Inez Haiber, Ethel Brown, Mildred Snyder, Clarice Perrin, Cecyl Willits, Edith Schaniel, Myrtle Cain and Miss Gladys Young. In the upper row from left to right, are Mesdames Kay Rasmussen, Ruth Garrison, Miss Leila Ritner, Mesdames Vivian Gans, Marjorie Rawlings, Charlene Utt, Josephine Lykke, Grace Linebarker, Lucille White and Gertrude Collier.

TWO GOLD CUPS PRESENTED AS LEGION MEET

There was rejoicing in the ranks of the Santa Ana post American Legion and its auxiliary today, for that favorite singing organization of the city, the American Legion Auxiliary Glee club, appearing in competition with similar organizations at the Legion convention in San Diego, yesterday wrested victory from all competitors, and was awarded the two handsome gold cups offered by the city of San Diego and the state of California.

News of the success was telegraphed at once to Santa Ana relatives and friends, eagerly awaiting word as to the results of yesterday's contest, and on every side has been heard expressions of satisfaction that the Santa Ana singers should have won. For no organization of women singers in the city has ever attained greater popularity than the Auxiliary Glee club, and everyone has been hoping for its success at the state convocation, as that assured the long anticipated trip back to Louisville, Ky., for the National American Legion convention September 30 to October 3.

There were half a dozen entrants in the competition, but choice gradually narrowed down until Santa Ana's closest competitor was Van Nuys, organized since the success attained by the local glee club at last year's state convention. Competition offered by Van Nuys was very strong, it was stated, and the local group felt that it added to the interest of the contest.

Two songs were required, one of the individual club's own choice, and one specified by the contest committee. Points made by Santa Ana were as follows: Tonal quality, 24; diction, 23; interpretation, 13; balance and poise, 10; attack and release, 3. Judges were three well known choral directors of San Diego.

When the announcement was made, the glee club received an ovation, and to Cecil Fross Willits, director, was presented what was described as the largest and most beautiful cluster of flowers any of the members had ever seen, in addition to the gold cups awarded by the hostess city and the state to the Glee club as a whole.

Their quarters at the U. S. Grant hotel overflowed with flowers and gifts, including a 10-pound box of sweetmeats sent by Mr. and Mrs. W. H. James. The Glee club was to sing last night at a banquet planned by the Legion as a compliment to Gov. C. C. Young and the state officers, and was asked for many other engagements during its stay in the convention city. Many of the members are expected to reach home some time today, it was stated.

COURT GRANTS BURGE RIGHT TO COMPLETE SHIP

Under authority of an injunction granted by Superior Judge James L. Allen, E. D. Burge, owner of the $130,000 floating palace, "Valencia," today was to receive the "keys to the ship" from Thomas Broadway, builder, while Broadway, who is said to have threatened to get a U. S. marshal to keep Burge from the premises, was to terminate his connection with the vessel, which has been a year and a half in building and which had been mentioned in court proceedings for several months.

Burge today was looking ahead to the realization of a long cherished dream and the work of planking the bottom of the ship was ready to proceed as a final step preparatory to launching the ship. Workmen from Los Angeles were to enter the Broadway premises and to finish the job, unhindered by the possibility of being locked out and ordered off by Broadway.

Can't Be Kept Away
Burge sought an injunction as a result of an asserted act of Broadway, who was reported to have refused to allow the owner of the vessel to enter the premises or to unload planking from Los Angeles. Judge Allen yesterday ruled that the builder had no authority to bar Burge from the place.

On the witness stand Broadway attempted to testify that he had ordered Burge off because he had been told by a U. S. steamship inspector not to allow anyone to put planking on the ship until it was ready. Broadway asserted that the vessel was not ready for planking when Burge brought his men there on August 12. This testimony was not admitted.

Burge claimed that Broadway had been trying to get planking for months and that he had failed. He said the completion of the boat had been held up and that Broadway had been "fooling along for three or four weeks and not

IMPORTANCE OF PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF BEACH IS STRESSED BY SEN. MERRIAM

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 21.—The importance of securing the ocean beach for the use and enjoyment of the public was referred to here last night at the meeting of the Orange County Coast association by State Senator Frank F. Merriam, of Long Beach.

Senator Merriam announced that a bridge on the coast road crossing the food control channel at Long Beach would be dedicated this afternoon with Governor Young and other notables present, and invited those present last night to attend.

W. D. Miller, of Seal Beach, referred to the fact that Huntington Beach has just purchased 3900 feet of beach and that Newport Beach years ago had acquired practically all of the miles of ocean beach fronting Newport, Balboa and Corona del Mar. He thought that Orange county might take steps to acquire some more beach.

Senator Merriam said this interested him, and he referred to the fact that much fine beach is shut from the public along the recently completed stretch of coast road between Santa Monica and Oxnard.

"Los Angeles city and county were asked to buy beach frontage when it was $8 and $10 a front foot and they said it was too high," the senator reminded his hearers. "Since then it has increased in value from $200 to $2000 and more a foot, still Los Angeles county must obtain it."

The Long Beach senator suggested that some of the state park bond issue of $6,000,000 might be secured for this purpose, but pointed out that any part of that fund must be matched dollar for dollar, by funds from some other source.

getting much done. He would not take my advice and he would not talk to me about the boat. He would throw his hands in the air, scratch his head and run away from me," Burge said.

On the witness stand, Broadway said:

Claims Responsibility
"I don't intend to shut him out as a visitor, but I do intend to shut him out when he comes there with a bunch of raw bo-hunks." He contended that he was responsible for the seaworthiness of the ship and that if defects appeared he could be sent to jail.

An affidavit was filed by Broadway as the hearing opened, in which Broadway asserted that he had been harassed by the presence of the boat on the premises, completion of which he said was impossible because of the asserted inability to Burge to supply the necessary money.

HouseholdAfternoon of Bridge Enjoyed in Home
Of Miss May

Many are the enjoyable little gatherings in the interesting home of Miss Beulah May on Mabury street, where associates assemble to discuss matters of interest in the world of art, but yesterday's groupings together there of a party of friends, was altogether different, for attention was given to bridge rather than to books, pictures, prose or verse.

It was a delightful afternoon for such amusement, and the cool breezes sweeping through the rooms were most refreshing. Miss May had planned for three tables of bridge, and at the conclusion of play, presented her pretty prizes to Mrs. John A. Tessmann and Mrs. Neal D. Pritchett.

Aided by Mrs. Robert Northcross and Mrs. Ernest Crozier Phillips, a refreshment course of walnut ice cream, angel food cake and lead punch was served after embroidered linens had replaced the dark card table covers.

Miss May's home is an unusually artistic one, as is to be expected from a mistress who is winning fame in the literary world after having won merited honor as painter and sculptor. To its charms of quaint old furniture, countless books and works of art of varied nature, was added yesterday, that of color from vivid zinnias arranged in bowls and jars.

Enjoying the afternoon with the hostess were Miss Agnes Todd Miller, Mrs. Northcross, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Tessmann, Mrs. Pritchett, Mrs. Loyal King, Mrs. Emmett Elliott, Mrs. Herman Reuter, Mrs. Edward M. Nealley, Mrs. C. F. Jackson, Mrs. C. M. Rowland and Mrs. Robert Bartholomew.

Bridge Luncheon Among Enjoyable Affairs
Of Month

Proving as enjoyable as any of the series of unusually delightful parties that have been given this month was yesterday's bridge luncheon presented by Mrs. W. H. Haddon, Mrs. Leonard G. Swales, and Mrs. Swales' daughter, Mrs. Lyman Farwell, Jr.

The charming affair took place at the Haddon home which was transformed into a veritable bower of color with its quantities of bright dahlias, zinnias and gladioli which had been presented the hostesses by Mrs. J. A. Prescott, Mrs. H. C. Kirk, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mrs. C. F. Skirvin, Mrs. Paul Bailey, Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, Mrs. Clarence Crookshank, Mrs. N. A. Beals, Mrs. J. L. Alford, and Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer. Many of the dahlias were from the Swales gardens.

Luncheon tables were decked in lovely rose tones even to the glowing glassware that was used and the attractive little place cards and they were arranged in the living rooms and on the shade porch of the Haddon home.

Assisting the hostesses in serving was Miss Mignonette Swales, eldest daughter of Mrs. Swales, while Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer was in charge of progression.

Miss Mignonette Swales was the fortunate possessor of high score while Mrs. Lyman Tremain was second and Mrs. J. C. Metzgar was third, each one receiving an attractive gift.

The guest list included Mesdames M. D. Borgmeyer, S. W. Stanley, T. E. Stephenson, Lloyd A. Chenoweth, W. H. DeWolfe, W. A. Berry of Paducah, Ky., Noel Berry; Lyman Farwell, Los Angeles; Paul Bailey, Harry Duckett, John Wehrly, J. L. Allen, Lyman Tremain, Adam Zaiser, A. B. Berry, Alex Brownridge, Ralph Mosher, J. P. Troth Is Plighted on
Sunset

Just as the last rays of the sun cast a rosy glow over the beautiful Sierra Madre they lighted the peak of Mount Wilson for a final instant before plunging into the Pacific, just as Miss Margaret Burgl, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Burgl of Anaheim, and Albert Kuechel, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kuechel of Orange, plighted their troth.

As the bridal party proceeded up a winding path to take its place before the Rev. Mr. Burgl who read the service, Mrs. Harold Holzgrafe, sister of the groom, sang "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains" and "The Lord Is in His Holy Temple."

Leading the procession were two small flower girls, the little Misses Marylin Greenwald and Helen Holzgrafe, who were frocked in pink and white and carried baskets of lovely asters.

The bride was attired in a becoming brown ensemble with matching accessories and she carried a bouquet of yellow roses and white sweet peas. She was attended by Mrs. Kathryn Volkman, of Ottawa, Ill., and Donald Jackson of Los Angeles served as best man.

After the ceremony the party motored to Pasadena where a wedding dinner was served at the Vine tea room.

Returning from a two weeks' honeymoon, Mr. Kuechel and his bride will make their home in Burbank.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Kuechel attended the same college in Illinois and both of them have taught school since their graduation. Mr. Kuechel taught in the Redondo Beach schools last year and was director of the choir at the Evangelical church in this city. This year he will be head of the music department at Burbank.

Guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. George Kuechel, the Rev. and Mrs. Edward Burgl, the Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Boelter of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Boelter and son Donald, of Los Angeles, Spencer Boelter of Los Angeles, Gordon Boelter of Los Angeles, Mrs. Augusta Gelpel of Los Angeles, Stanley Jacobson of Pasadena, Mildred Mauerhahn of Anaheim, Mr. and Mrs. Greenwald and children of Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Kuechel and son of Orange, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Kuechel and children of Orange, Mr. Ed Kuechel and children of Lindsay, Mr. and Mrs. Holzgrafe and son, Mr. and Mrs. H. Holzgrafe and daughter of Santa Ana, Mrs. Emily Kloth of Downey, Mr. and Mrs. Edith Gommel and family of Orange.

And Miss Lorene Cuddy accompanied by Miss Eva Ramsey sang several solos and Miss Ramsey gave two piano numbers.

The hostess, assisted by Miss Beulah Stone and Miss Verna Powell, served dainty refreshments.

Garden Is Setting for Pretty Garden Party

The delightful garden of the Clyde Deardorff home on South McClay street was chosen by Mrs. Eugene Thomas and Mrs. Clyde Otto as the setting for a pretty party given by them recently.

Bridge was enjoyed during the afternoon and attractive gifts of rose Fostoria glassware were awarded Mrs. Earl Fraser, high; Mrs. Carl Weissmann, second, and Mrs. R. Patterson, low.

At the tea hour tables were made gay with crepe paper decorations in tints that reflected the color of the many flowers blooming in the garden.

The guest list included Mrs. Burton Wright, Mrs. Rae Aunger, Mrs. John Gould, Mrs. John Hartke, Mrs. Robert Stewart, Mrs. F. C. Arnim, Mrs. James Givens, Mrs. L. B. Phillips, Mrs. Rex McGill, Mrs. Earl Fraser, Mrs. Carl Weissmann, Mrs. Russell Johnson, Mrs. Clifford Quisel, Mrs. Joe McKee, Mrs. Clyde Deardorff of Santa Ana; Mrs. Harold O'Donnell, Miss Gertrude Heesch, Mrs. Lee Woodard, Mrs. Frank Beasley and Mrs. O. Landreth of Long Beach; Mrs. Leavitt Ford, Mrs. Claudine Irvine, Miss Helen Woodward and Miss Mildred Johnson of Garden Grove; Mrs. R. Patterson, Mrs. Z. Stickle, Mrs. J. A. Lincoln and Mrs. H. Stinson of Corona; Mrs. John Thompson of Vista and Mrs. R. Ozmun of Anaheim.

Family Reunion Held
As Compliment to
L. H. Hill

Honoring L. H. Hill of 910 West Chestnut avenue, this city, his sons and daughters and their families gathered at the J. S. Hill home, 730 Minter street, Sunday for a family reunion.

The time was spent in reminiscence and in listening to a short musical program presented by Mrs. Herbert Hill, who was formerly Miss Sara Hales of this city, and Spencer Hill of San Diego. Mrs. Hill sang and Mr. Hill accompanied her at the piano besides giving several delightful solos.

A part of the time was devoted to taking pictures of the group which had not been together for a number of years.

Among those who had planned to be present but were unable to attend were Mrs. Emma McClelland of Middleton, Tex., and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Hill of Whittier.

Those who enjoyed the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Boone and sons, Billy Kenneth and Warren Jr., of Dallas, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hill and their son, Earl, of Burleson, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. I. I. McIlvane and their son and daughter, Robert and Vera, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Coon and children of El Centro, Spencer Hill of San Diego, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hill and son, Clifford, of San Dimas, Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Hill and son, Winston, of Pasadena, Earl McClelland of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hill and son, Sam Jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hill and daughter, Viola, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Merriweather and daughter, Natalie, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hill, Francis Hill, Lewis Hill, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hill and their children, Betty, Billy and Marjorie Alice, and the honored guest, Mr. L. H. Hill, of Santa Ana.

Bon Voyage Party Is Given for House
Guests

Honoring their houseguests, Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Palmer of Toledo, O., who left early this week for their eastern home, Mrs. C. A. Bowers and her daughter, Mrs. Fred Hein, entertained at Mrs. Hein's home near Garden Grove, with two delightful affairs. Mrs. Hein was formerly Miss Cleo Bowers.

The first was for Mrs. Palmer and occurred in the afternoon when a number of the group enjoyed several games of bunko for which a handsome gift was awarded Mrs. George Rains who held high score.

At the tea hour, graceful Mayflower place cards marked places for the guests and centering the table where Mrs. Palmer was seated was a miniature vessel, a replica of the Santa Maria, which is the treasured possession of Mrs. T. A. Winbigger of this city. A yellow and white color scheme was used for the remaining appointments.

Guests were Mrs. Earl Matthews, Mrs. James Hughes, Mrs. James Pederson and Miss Irene Beamer of Santa Ana; Mrs. Rollin Rossetol and Mrs. F. P. Rossetol of Garden Grove; Mrs. L. W. Rains, Mrs. George Rains, Miss Vona Rains, Miss Ethel Phipps, Mrs. Ben F. Hein, Mrs. Wesley Hein, Mrs. E. L. Hein, Miss Frances Hein, Mrs. Jim Sparks of Anaheim, and Mrs. Palmer of Toledo.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hein, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Hein, Mrs. Tyler Sawyer of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Sparks and Mr. and Mrs. Rollin Rossetol were invited to the Hein home to bid Mr. and Mrs. Palmer farewell.

Following a delightful evening of cards, a dainty supper was served by Mrs. Hein and Mrs. Bowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Palmer are making the trip east by way of the Panama canal. They are sailing on the Manchuria.

Editorial Staff of Register Enjoys
Beach Party

Mason Yould, city editor of The Register, and Mrs. Yould were hosts to members of the editorial staff of the paper at a delightful beach party given at their home in Laguna last night. The affair celebrated the birthday anniversary of Mr. Yould.

The party motored to the beach early in the evening so that several could enjoy a swim in the surf before the dinner hour.

The delicious dinner was served buffet style with Mrs. Ray Heath of this city, Mrs. Yould's sister, assisting in various hostess duties and guests adjourned to the moonlight porch for the remainder of the evening.

Those who enjoyed the occasion with Mr. and Mrs. Yould were Mr. and Mrs. J. Frank Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Loyal K. King, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fahstedt, Mr. and Mrs. E. Neil Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Berry, Mrs. Ray Heath, Mrs. Robert Lufberry, Miss Cleora Fine, Miss Ellen Schenely, Miss Louise Stephenson, W. Maxwell Burke, Horace Fine, Edmund C. West, Gordon Bradshaw, Robert Heath, Gordon Heath and Phillip Yould.

Court Whist Diversion
At Pretty Party
And Shower

Miss Winifred Miller was a charming hostess last night at a pretty party and shower given at her home, 402 East Walnut street, in honor of Miss Eileen King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. King, of South Bristol street, who is to marry Ivy Lee Jed soon.

The evening was devoted to playing court whist at which Miss Lucille Bermann scored high with Miss Betty Smith low. Each one received a attractive gift.

At the supper hour a color scheme of pink and white was used at the prettily appointed tables and the same colors were used to wrap the package which Miss King found at the end of an entertaining treasure hunt.

Guests of Miss Miller were Miss Janet Eliza, Miss Janet Watson and Miss Mavis Campbell of Orange, Miss Virginia Cogan, Miss Ruth Bradley, Miss Betty Smith, Miss Mary DuBois, Miss Ruth DuBois, Miss Lucille Bermann, Miss Verdina Peters and Miss Allen Lair.

CHURCH WOMEN SOCIETY THE HOME WEDDINGS FASHIONS HOUSEHOLD

The WOMAN'S DAY by ALLENE SUMNER

The one woman who was even seated in the Dr. Snook murder trial at Columbus, Ohio, was dismissed after lunch the first day. She was found chatting with one of the defense attorneys. A newspaper photographer snapped the picture of the social little chinchin, and the court removed the lady when the afternoon session began.

"HOW'RE CROPS?"

The judge said that he was convinced that there was no illegal connivance with the jury lady and the attorney. He quite accepted her explanation that she and the attorney had come from the same parts, and were merely exchanging pleasant inquiries and answers as to how the crops looked down state, whether the same girl was still teaching school, and how the uncles and aunts were. But business was business and there was nothing to it but that the lady must leave.

HOW ABOUT HIM?

One can just imagine some of the male chortling at this, just as they chortle, some of 'em, whenever woman outside the home makes a faux pas. But here's arising to remark that if no man, utterly devoid of any knowledge of jury law, ever made the mistake of talking to an attorney in his spare minutes as a juror it is simply because no male attorney ever permitted him to.

The joker in this case is not that Miss Dysinger chatted with the defense attorney, but that the attorney stopped to chat with her. He should know the law. She had no reason to.

And yet nobody seems to be laughing at him at all, and he seems to be drawing no editorial comments of scorn and derisions.

Nobody Knows

Speaking of the same trial, the father and mother of the co-ed, Theora Hex, for whose murder a member of the Ohio state faculty is on trial, remained in the courtroom constantly throughout the first few days, forced to hear damaging testimony to the character of the girl, revelations of which they had never dreamed.

There is plenty of editorial there is plenty of retrospection comment to the effect that no parents nowadays really know their own children, especially the modern girl.

It's just as sure that no parents of any decade ever really knew their offspring, just as it's sure no human being ever really knows another.

NO STYLIST

Mrs. Hoover, first lady of the land, never has and never will, they say, set a style. She wears no special color, unless, perhaps,

WORDS CANNOT DESCRIBE HER JOY. SHE SAYS

"I'm so happy over the wonderful health the Sargon treatment has brought me, I can't find words to express my joy.

"I was in such a weak nervous rundown condition that I just didn't want anyone around me at all. I hardly knew what it was to get a good night's sleep. I used to have severe pains in my shoulders and was constantly constipated. None of the many medicines I took seemed to do me any good, until I began taking Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills.

"I had no idea I would get such wonderful results. The treatment simply toned up my whole system right away. My nerves are just as steady as they can be now, and the way I sleep is remarkable. I get up feeling rested and full of life every day. The pills have completely rid me of constipation, too. I just feel like I'll never have to take medicine again—for I'm sure the marvelous benefits I got from Sargon will be lasting."

The above statement was made by Mrs. C. E. Geschke, 1012 Allison Way, Berkeley.

Sargon may be obtained in Santa Ana at Schramm-Johnson Drug Store—Adv.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

Bursting into Culinary Song Our Mixing Bowl poetess says: 'Tis strange that some cooks never think about

The odds and ends that they throw out! Why be so wasteful of the stuff they thought today was good enough

To eat? Refrigeration would, with little coaxing, keep the food as fresh as anyone could wish. Why spend more money on some dish

These odds and ends would make as well? This is no secret that I tell

It cuts the grocery bill in two. Many have tried it, why not you?

She is a trusting female when she says it cuts the grocery bill in two, although it helps greatly. The chief value of refrigeration lies in the cleanly state in which perishable foods may be kept and the aid it is to the service of good generally. It takes many generations to produce a thoroughbred, whether it be animal or human. Correct service of food is a big factor in the human equation and refrigeration one of its cornerstones.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Small Cucumber Pickles 100 or more cucumbers, assorted sizes.

12 small green peppers. Salt. Alum.

Vinegar. 1 package pickling spices.

3/4 pound white mustard seed.

Buy your cucumbers "hit and miss" sizes and sort them after the blue which brings out the blue of her eyes and is flattering to her soft white hair. She favors no one shop, is not at all extreme in dress.

Curious thing, this. Notables have a little habit of setting style, no matter what they wear. The fact that they are a notable makes what they wear a style. Some high mogul, story has it, got caught in the rain in his best pants and dried them over some implement with a sharp edge so that the crease resulted.

Because he was a Mogul, creases have been "good" ever since. Queerly enough, that is more true in the case of men's styles than women's. Women have a more instinctive sense of the smart, and are not easily led astray by those who aren't so smart.

Leftover angel food cake or sponge cake combined with whipped cream, candied fruits and nuts provide tomorrow's delectable dessert: Sponge Cake Cream.

ANN MEREDITH.

MARX BROTHERS PROVIDE LAUGHS

A whole show full of laughs amply described the all-talking, singing Paramount feature, "The Cocoanuts," now being shown at the Fox-Broadway theater.

Featuring the Four Marx brothers, "crazy nuts" of Broadway, the show, a musical comedy from the show by the same name on Broadway, is probably the funniest ever brought to a Santa Ana stage.

Zeppo, Groucho, Chico and Harpo Marx, produce so many laughs that one comes right on the heels of the other.

The music of the show was written by Irvin Berlin, featuring "When My Dreams Come True." There also are a half score other popular numbers and the Marx brothers are heard in several selections.

Aside from the feature, a Grantland Rice sportlike, a song dialogue skit and a Fox Movietone News complete the bill.

CHINESE MYSTERY PLAY ENDS TODAY

Today marks the last chance to see Paramount's all-talking Chinese mystery play, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," at the Fox-Walker theater. The play ends its engagement here after being shown since Monday to crowded houses.

A gripping play which causes the audience to shudder with horror at brutal murders which occur frequently in the film, "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu," concerns a Chinese scientist who is mentally deranged at seeing his wife and son killed, and who seeks revenge on several English families.

A love story runs through the play, but the mysterious happenings that take place from the first scene until the last are by far more outstanding.

Warner Oland has the lead and is supported by Neil Hamilton, O. P. Heggie and Jean Arthur.

An all-talking comedy, featuring Johnny Arthur, a Fox Movietone skit featuring Van and Schenck, and a Fox Movietone news are on the program.

FINE FLAVORS BRING JOY TO EATING

Sugar is the Greatest Condimental Food in the World

Flavor! How much that means to all growing children and to all adults who enjoy their meals. What delight flavor brings to the palate. What satisfaction to a jaded appetite. And what flavor surpasses the unique sweetness of sugar?

The sentences above were not spoken, as might be supposed, by a great chef or even by a successful woman cook. They are the words of an eminent scientist, spoken while he was discussing the subject of sugar and diet.

Dieticians, medical specialists and scientific authorities all emphasize the importance of a varied, balanced diet. And how many of the useful foods are practically tasteless. How many worth-while foods, if taken "straight," would be so monotonous that we would soon tire of them. This is where sugar enters the domain of the healthful diet.

A pinch of sugar used in the cooking of vegetables (preferably cooked with little water) makes these important foods fresher, more colorful and more delightful to the taste. A dash of sugar makes the eating of fruits and cereals a positive pleasure.

The well-informed woman uses correct amounts of sugar in making milk desserts—junkets, custards, puddings, etc.—thus helping her family to eat the needed quantity of milk. Remember stewed fruits, cakes and cookies and ice cream for dessert. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

MADGE BELLAMY, Fox star, in the lovely paneled bathroom built for her in Hollywood from designs by a well-known New York artist. Like nine out of ten lovely screen stars, she uses Lux Toilet Soap. She says: "The 'studio skin' a star must have demands a soap that leaves the skin as smooth as a rose petal—and Lux Toilet Soap does."

9 out of 10 screen stars guard their skin this way . .

"BEAUTIFUL SKIN is the most potent charm a girl can have," says Raoul Walsh, famous director for Fox Films—and sums up the experience of leading Hollywood directors.

"A beautiful skin which even the cruel glare of the close-up proclaims the real thing—that's an absolute essential for stardom," he continues.

This is why 9 out of 10 screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap. Of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 keep their skin exquisitely smooth with this delightful soap.

And all the great film studios have made this white, fragrant soap the official soap in their dressing rooms. You, too, will be delighted with Lux Toilet Soap.

Luxury such as you have found only in French soaps at 50¢ and now 10¢ $1.00 the cake . . .

The Tines shortly reached a tree and Scouty, frightened, shouted, "Gee! The wind is blowing mighty hard. A real cyclone, I fear. Just listen to its roaring sound. We'd better flop down on the ground. I wish that all the other circus folks were also here." Then Carpy said, "Oh, they're all right. I saw them disappear from sight inside a circus wagon. They are better off, by far, than we are out here 'neath this tree. Say, I'm as frightened as can be. I wish we all could reach our bunks, down in the circus car."

"Oh, no," cried Coppy. "Don't try that. We're safer if we just lay flat. The wind will blow right over our heads and leave us all alone. I've heard a cyclone's always mean, but one like this I've never seen. You'd think the wind was really mad at us, to hear it roar."

By now much dust was all around. It seemed to whip up from the ground and form into a circle ere it started on its way. 'Twould swoop down low, and shoot up high, as if to blacken all the sky. What funny things the wind can do when it starts out to play.

For quite a while the bunch kept still. Then came a very sudden thrill. "Oh, look!" exclaimed wee Scouty. "What's that flapping down toward us? Why, it's the tent that's broken loose. Don't try to run 'cause it's no use. All we can do is wait. 'Twill do no good to start a fuss."

And then, amid a sudden roar, the canvas swept and caught the four and lifted them right off the ground and sailed up in the air. "We're on a trip!" one Tiny cried. "Or else we're on another ride. So far we're safe. I only hope this canvas doesn't tear."

EVENING SALUTATION

"You have to assume that an end is worth achieving before you can even form an idea of progress toward it."
—Dr. Clarence True Wilson. (Forum.)

WHAT IS THE ANSWER?

The complete trip from Spokane to New York and return in a non-stop flight has been completed, and as President Hoover stated,
"This was a further demonstration of the widening scope and practical utility of aircraft."

On next Sunday, the giant Zeppelin will, barring any mishap, be seen by hundreds of thousands of people in the Southland, as it arrives in Los Angeles on the next to its last part of its journey around the world. When Jules Verne wrote his interesting and imaginative tale of "Around the World in 80 Days," people thought it a good story, but never dreamed of its realization. The Zeppelin will complete its journey of the circumference of the earth in about twenty-one days. Without question some of these days this time will be cut in half. We can well imagine that the first questions George Washington would ask if in body he could return to earth would be "What's your hurry?" "Where are you going?"

Some people who claim to have open minds ought to close up for a while for repairs.

STILL SOME RESERVE

Now they are able to photograph the actual impulse caused by sensation, as the sense of touch transmits the impulse to the brain; and then again as the brain transmits it to the motor nerves.

These impulses as they appear in the nerve fiber are shown only as movement. Is it possible at some distant day they will be able to discern the differences in these movements, and to establish what one is thinking about, regardless of what he says?

Science seems to know no limits, and yet we probably all can breathe with a little more relief if we think there is at least one line which they have not crossed. They have never been able to reach into the human mind to determine the thinking of the subject. Some have made shrewd guesses, and through hypnotism are able to force their own thoughts upon others, but no one has yet been able voluntarily to take the thoughts from another which the other person did not willingly present. This will never be done. Personality and civilization itself might be forfeited if this were possible.

The father of twins is always proud. Puts on heirs, you might say.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT'S ARTICLES

Mabel Walker Willebrandt, is writing a series of articles on "Prohibition and its Enforcement" which appears in several of the leading journals of the country, including the Los Angeles Times.

There is no one better equipped by knowledge, experience, and purpose to discuss these questions than is Mrs. Willebrandt. Her articles are not only remarkably illuminating but they are convincing to all open minded people of the value of the 18th Amendment and the Volstead Act, and of the unquestioned power and ability of the government to enforce these regulatory measures when the Department manages itself with the proper personnel.

We hope that the readers of the Register who are not subscribers for the Los Angeles Times will be able to avail themselves of the opportunity to read these timely articles, which when completed will amount to a treatise.

The 600 canaries that came over on the Graf Ze-ppelin are likely still singing its praises.

SELF-EXTINGUISHING CIGARETTES

Science is coming to the aid of the folks responsible for forest fires which start from their cigarettes. A self-extinguishing cigarette and a fire-proof match are now nearing perfection. The fire-protection factor of the cigarette lies in a cork tip an inch long which is lined with water-glass. The fireproof match is also coated with water-glass to within a half-inch of its head.

It has been found in tests that the self-extinguishing cigarette goes out quickly enough to reduce the fire hazard about ninety per cent.
The fireproofed matches, it is maintained, will reduce the possibility of fire from that score one-third.

Investigation of smoking habits has revealed that the one and one-quarter inch cigarette stub is the one frequently discarded and two-thirds of the smokers will discard a cigarette which is one and one-half inches long. Furthermore the long cigarette is seldom discarded except at the entrance of buildings where it hits pavements and does no damage. Again the laboratory investigation has brought out that the cigarette has a forty to one fire hazard as compared to cigars.

Whether or not these fireproofed cigarettes and matches would extinguish themselves quickly enough to greatly reduce the number of forest fires, because the exceedingly dry brush in our forests are much more inflammable than a flat, seasoned and treated floor, is a question. The experimentation with the self-extinguishing cigarettes and matches appears extremely valuable when we stop to consider that cigarette butts and cigar stubs are discarded at the rate of 170,000 a minute in the United States, according to the Department of Agriculture. Tests have shown that a fire can be started from these "discards" with a wind of only three or four miles an hour.

A MILE IN TEN SECONDS

Lieutenant Alford Williams, the U. S. navy's crack speed flyer, has a new seaplane of unique design in which he is going to try to break the world speed record of 318 miles per hour at the international speed races in England in September.

It is reported that he will try to reach a speed of four hundred miles per hour in his tiny plane, nearly all of which is motor and which looks a lot like an overgrown mosquito.

The little ship is said to be the fastest airplane ever built. It is of 1100 horsepower and weighs only four pounds to the horsepower, a ratio never before achieved. It has a 24-cylinder motor with 48 sparkplugs, four carburetors and four distributors. The wings are so tiny in proportion to the motor that if the engine stopped the ship would fall like a plummet, as it could not glide. In other words, it has to go through the air like a bullet, mostly on its momentum.

It has a minimum speed of 100 miles per hour, meaning that Lieutenant Williams must land and take off at a speed greater than the maximum of most planes. This makes landing on the water especially dangerous, because if a pontoon struck even a small piece of driftwood at this terrific speed there might be a disaster.

Four hundred miles per hour is approximately six and one-half miles per minute or a mile every ten seconds. Consider a speed like that; consider how much even the slightest misjudgment of direction or altitude on Lieutenant Williams' part would mean. In the time required to bat an eye he might be hundreds of feet off his course. He might crash before his brain could react or his muscles to shift the controls.

It's interesting, all right—and it will be heroic and thrilling if he does it. The test may add to the knowledge of airplane design and of motors and thereby benefit practical aviation.

We fail to see where very much is going to be accomplished for aviation by a stunt like this, but we can't help but admire Lieutenant Williams for his courage and the tremendous risk he will assume in making the attempt. If he succeeds in breaking the record in this frail, bullet-like plane on which the experts have labored so long it will not be because of the machine, but because there was a man who was daring enough to fly it.

We wish him well; we hope he makes it.
It's going to be a thrilling attempt and his bravery should be rewarded with success.

But, after all, it will be only a stunt, and —succeed or fail—of slight value to sane, sound, common-sense, business-like commercial aviation.

Some people don't care what they say in the presence of company; others are married.

ANENT A WEDDING DRESS

It is a safe wager that the daughter, if there ever is one, of the couple married in bathing suits in the office of the Mayor of Antibes, France, will never be married in the "beautiful costume her mother wore—years ago when she was married." Somehow the 1929 bathing suit will hardly lend itself to redraping in 1950.
Still, one never can predict with safety about the future.

Rockets On Airplanes

Oakland Tribune

Airports are to become more exciting and spectacular if experiments with rockets as airplane starters prove successful. At Sessau, Germany, the scheme is being tried out, the hope being to find a way to start airplanes cheaply and quickly. Once in the air the plane is expected to keep itself aloft with its conventional motors.

Rockets have been suggested to propel mechanisms through space. In Germany they have been used on rail cars and in motor boats but with no great success. That they should be applied to the airplane is not surprising for aircraft engineers know that more power is needed to get an airplane off the ground than to keep it there. In the future the heavy planes may be "kicked off" by rockets and there will be no more unsuccessful attempts of transoceanic voyagers to get away.

The rocket motor, more technically described as the explosion reaction motor, operates on the same principle as the kick of a gun. Gases resulting from a properly placed orifice. This escape drives the gases in one direction, the rocket in the opposite one. No reaction against air is necessary, as it is for ordinary propellers, or to provide the lifting forces of planes. These peculiarities give rocket motors two unusual characteristics. One is that they operate almost as well in a vacuum as in air, as has been proved experimentally by America's rocket expert, Professor R. H. Goddard, of Clark University. The second is that the propulsive force is generated with extreme rapidity.

Moralizing on the Boy Who Mislaid
a Fortune

San Francisco Chronicle

The sixteen-year-old Wall Street messenger who rather absent-mindedly mislaid a wallet containing $200,000 in negotiable securities should, no doubt, be sent to bed without his supper. The incident also makes a convenient text for reproaching the money kings who are so careless with large sums, but we are inclined to take another view of it. It seems to show a delightfully naive spirit, quite at variance with the common notion of the world's financial center.

To certain efficiency engineers who exact rigid accounting for the office lead pencils and who count the pen wipers every evening, the Wall Street method may seem abhorrent. But how much more human it is. This lad, for instance, wanted a drink. So he put his messenger wallet on a bench and went to the water cooler. When he went back to the bench, strange to relate, the $200,000 was gone.

The loss of that amount in itself would cause no comment in Wall Street. It was the manner of its going. It doesn't often happen that way, although boys trip millions around daily as if they were delivering groceries.

After all, above expediency bonds, laws, armored cars and everything else, business—even the biggest business—must be built on faith, in human beings.

NEGLECT OF DUTY

Any one not only can be rich, but ought to be rich.—John J. Raskob

I know it is my duty
To be a wealthy man,
With tons of gold, as I am told That Raskob says I can.
But while uncounted millions
This active lad has made
And laid aside, I've merely pined
A rather trifling trade
And when, as soon they will be,
My earthly sands are run,
My duty, which is growing rich
Must be left quite undone.

This lies upon my conscience;
My head is bowed with shame.
Too late I learn with grave concern
I haven't played the game.
While John piled up a fortune
Which any one can do
In daily gains, as he maintains,
I haven't saved a sou.
It may be that a fortune
Would do me little good,
Yet I must die aware that I Have not done what I should.

And so it's Raskob's duty
To each and every one,
To teach the knack of getting Jack
As fast as he has done.
Some may not want the money—
Though plenty of them might—
But I believe they all will grieve
If they have not done right.
And if he'll give me lessons
In gathering the pelf
I'll gladly learn my pile to earn
And thereby square myself!

ise the boys not to put prohibition over on them while they are away fighting.

Does Speculation Divert Money From Business?By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Some people say that stock speculation diverts money from business. How can that happen? The money that is used to pay for stocks is not locked up in bank vaults. It is promptly put to other uses.

To be sure, an old economic theory, still widely taught, regards money as a FUND. According to this theory, money is literally "sunk" in a given enterprise, as though it were dropped into a deep well and left there.

But money is not a FUND. It is a FLOW. That part which is used to buy stocks is not sunk in a well. It becomes part of an endless stream. It flows on.

What becomes of this money? Part of it is used to buy newly issued stocks and bonds. Most of that money flows directly into business, to employ men to build new factories, extend railroad lines, develop water power, and so on.

Still another part of the money becomes profits; and part of this money—in the aggregate a huge amount—is spent for consumers' goods, thus stimulating every kind of business.

That is equally true of the money—also a huge amount—which is received and spent by hordes of workers who directly or indirectly, gain their living through selling securities.

A still larger part of the money which is used to buy stocks is at once deposited in banks, or used to pay bank loans. Thus it goes back where it came from, and is immediately available for business.

Money borrowed from banks and used to buy stocks has not been diverted from business. It has been directed into business.
That is one reason why business activity—outside as well as inside stock markets—has this summer broken all records.

on the 2nd day and that would make me feel as if I was reely making some headway. 2nd day dinner, here it in, one half a grape fruit, watercress, one tomato and 2 olives, she sed.

Yes, yes, go on, pop sed, and ma sed, That's all.
Eat harty, pop sed, and I sed,
Do you just eat it once, ma, or are you eating it until you've had

Thoughts On Modern Life

By Glenn Frank

LABORER, ARTISAN OR ARTIST
To some the word laborer suggests inferiority and a humble position in life.

Ditch digging, baggage rustling, and other similar tasks are usually associated with the word laborer.

Laborers are supposed to be plentiful. There is a tacit assumption that the essential requirements for a good laborer is a strong back.

To some the term of artisan suggests a vocational level somewhat above that of the laborer, but one in which mechanical skill rather than creative power is required.

The supply of artisans while supposed to be somewhat more limited than that of laborers at the same time is accepted as adequate for the work to be done.

When the word artist is used some think of their favorite painter, favorite singer, or favorite violinist.

There is supposed to be a shortage on the artist market.
But are these hard-and-fast descriptions of these major groups of workers either adequate or correct?

Ruskin once defined a laborer
as one who works with his hands, an artisan as one who works with his head and hands, and an artist
as one who works with his hands,
head and heart combined.

If Ruskin's interpretation of these three words is correct, the common understanding of these terms cannot hold true.

How good would a painter be if he did not use his hands?

How good would a painter be if he did not use his head and allowed form and color to run riot with no regard for the laws of perspective?

How good would a painter be if his heart did not play a part in his artistry, if he painted because he was obliged to paint and not because he wanted to paint?

In the light of Ruskin's definitions of these terms, a bricklayer may be an artist and a favorite of the opera may be but a laborer.

The highest achievement lies in transforming every enterprise into an art.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

A ball is a child's first toy.
The child's first motion is the clutching of the hand, the cupping of the palm, to meet the round face of the ball. All his life long he will play with one, and much of his happiness arises from the power that enables him to handle a ball with skill. You know the world is a ball and we are meant to play a little while with it before going home to rest.

A baby ought to have his ball tied to his crib or his chair. He will like to handle it, mouth it, intelligently. The child who can play a good game of ball, of tennis, or golf, has intelligence and skill. It is a sure indication of power in other fields.

I have said this because so many people are distressed at the manifestations of delight that their children show in ball games. "He only wants to play ball. He can play ball like a veteran but he hates to do his homework."

I cannot grieve at that. School work that uses the best five hours of a child's day ought not to lap over into the remainder of his time. Keep school work in its right proportions and let the children have time to handle their balls. Elementary school children ought to have plenty of playing time, much time for balls. As they go through junior high school and high school they will have more homework and less ball time. But always, from birth to old age, they should play ball.

SLAVERY DEBATES

On Aug. 21, 1858, Abraham Lincoln and his great rival, Stephen A. Douglas, began their series of seven debates on the question of slavery.

The seven places, one in each Illinois congressional district, and the dates were: Ottawa, Aug. 21;
Freeport, Aug. 27; Jonesboro, Sept.
15; Galesburg, Oct. 7; Quincy, Oct.
13, and Alton, Oct. 15.

In the famous Freeport debate, Lincoln asked: "Can the people of a United States territory, in any lawful way, against the wishes of any citizen of the United States, exclude slavery from its limits, prior to the formation of a state constitution?"

If Douglas answered No, he would deny his pet doctrine of popular sovereignty; if he answered Yes, he would antagonize the dominant politicians of the south, led by Jefferson Davis, who maintained that the only power that could deal with slavery was the municipal power of the state, and furthermore he would set the local authority of the territory above the Supreme Court which had declared slavery legal in all the

THE EASIER WAY

VISITOR: Where did you get that fur coat?
HOSTESS: I got it in a swimming contest—we had to swim across the lake, and I did it in three hours and a half.
VISITOR: You poor dear, I only went for three minutes and my husband bought me a complete set of furs!—Passing Show.

NOT HEAVEN?

"What she wants," said the doctor, "is a warm climate."
The son-in-law suggested Monte Carlo, and then more torrid climates, but the doctor persisted in declaring for something hotter.
The son-in-law went away, and returned with an axe.
"You hit her, doctor," he said. "I can't."—Tit-Bits.

SCRAMBLED EVIDENCE

NEIGHBOR: Why are you painting one side of your car red and the other green?
SPEED MANIAC: It's a great idea. You should just hear the witnesses contradicting one another.—Passing Show.
